State Senate Adopts Plan To Redistrict By Resolution

Acts After Filibuster by Democrats

MADISON (AP)—A determined Republican majority in the state Senate beat down an 8½ hour filibuster by a band of six Democrats at 12 30 a m today and passed an unprecedented measure to reapportion Wisconsin by resolution

Senate action on the plan designed to realign state Senate and Assembly districts without the governor's signature was completed 10 minutes after the filibuster ended

Both houses of the Legislature will reconvene Tuesday when Assembly action on the controversial resolution can be expected Senate approval of the measure came on a 19-10 vote with one Republican Sen Ernest Keppler of Sheboygan joining Democrats in opposition to the resolution.

Lashes at Resolution

During the filibuster Sen Carl W Thompson D Stoughton, held the floor for more than 2½ hours denouncing the resolution which he characterized as 'an attempt to overturn the whole system of enacting laws in Wisconsin"

It is the first time in Wisconsin's history that such a method or reapportionment has been tried and added another aspect to the already complicated realignment struggle

The resolution applies only to Senate and Assembly districts and would not become effective until 1964 Republicans in firm control of both houses, have abandoned attempts to reapportion before the 1962 elections.

Stalemate Stresser

But GOP lawmakers contend that their party is locked in a stalemate with Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson and the resolution bypassing the chief executive is the only way out

Democrats are just as firm in their opposition to the reapportionment resolution on grounds it is clearly unconstitutional They staged the filibuster, they said, to dramatize their opposition

There were only six Democrat-

Proposal Would Face Test in Court

Decision Unlikely to Come Until After Fall Election

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The Republican legislative leadership decision to attempt reapportionment without the involvement of Democratic Gov Gaylord Nelson opens up a whole new field of constitutional litigation in the state's already clouded redistricting struggle

The idea of achieving reapportionment by joint resolution of the legislature instead of through an act which requires the signature of the governor had been discussed privately by Republicans during the last three weeks

The decision to make the attempt came abruptly late Thursday evidently as a result of an encouraging if highly cautious opinion from M G Toepel chief of the legislative library, that such a device might be sustained on a test in the courts which will inevitably come

Against Precedent

Toepel said after a hurried review of the state's constitutional convention history that there is "some doubt" about the necessity of submitting reapportionment legislation to the governor to make it effective

But he also cautioned that the weight of precedent is against such a procedure All previous reapportionment measures ever enacted in this state were in bill form and became effective only after the governor signed his approval of the enactment of the law-making branch

If the legislature manages to put through a legislative redistricting in the form of a joint resolution of the two houses—and the GOP leaders apparently have a commitment for a majority vote in both houses—either Gov Nelson or Atty Gen John W. Reynolds is virtually certain to challenge the validity of such an act in the courts

But such an appeal would be carried to the Wisconsin Supreme Court rather than to the federal district court, the Republican planners point out

Would Gain Time

Even if that court should rule against the device the legislature will have gained some time Such litigation would require many weeks to complete Simultaneously, however the fact of the litigation might serve to give pause to the federal district judges considering Reynolds' earlier petition for reapportion

Peruvian Workers Strike as Pressure On Junta Increases

Figurehead President May be Named to Help Quiet Critics

LIMA Peru (AP) — Workers struck in the interior and more street clashes erupted in Lima Thursday night as pressure mounted on Peru's two day old military junta at home and abroad

The United States dealt the military chiefs a staggering blow by cutting off millions of dollars in U S aid Speculation arose that under the barrage of foreign criticism the junta might install a figurehead civilian president as the military did in Argentina

An American sugar company official said 75 per cent of his firm's plantations were shut down Thursday by a walkout of workers loyal to Victor Raul Haya de la Torre leftist but avowed anti Communist presidential aspirant who was the principal target of the military takeover

Strike to Grow

Jack Duncan executive vice president of W R Grace & Co said workers on his firm's other plantations in the rich northern farming area would strike today

"That's heavy Aprista country" said Duncan referring to Haya's Popular Revolutionary Alliance (APRA) So far he said the walkouts have been quiet

Workers in Lima generally ignored the anti junta protest strike called by the APRA dominated Peruvian Confederation of Workers But violence flared at night as police clashed with hundreds of students shouting Liberty! Liberty!

The students and others gathered in downtown streets and Plaza San Martin to taunt police with shouts of 'Down with military dictatorship and 'We want freedom'

Bus, Autos Set Afire

Youths set a bus and several automobiles afire Several store windows were smashed

Police charged into the crowd flailing rubber truncheons, then hurled tear gas bombs to disperse the demonstrators

No serious injuries were reported in the demonstrations which began when the armed forces deposed and arrested President Manuel Prado early Wednesday and nullified the June 10 national elections

The demonstrations thus far have not represented a serious challenge to the junta headed by 56 year-old Gen Ricardo Perez Godoy commander in chief of the military high command But sources in and out of the government said the junta was feeling the pressure of the United States and other American nations for a return to constitutional government

House Passes Farm Bill by 229-163 Ballot

Majority Votes For Compromise But Few Like It

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed a compromise farm bill that most members found barely palatable

Passage came late Thursday on a 229 163 roll call vote

The measure continues with some changes the existing voluntary crop reduction programs for wheat and feed grains and provides for new voluntary curbs for milk production It replaces the more restrictive administration bill rejected by the House last month

The bitter farm bill battle is far from over however as the Senate which has already passed the administration measure is now being asked to reverse itself and accept the House version Senate leaders have given no indication they are willing to do so

No Praise for Bill

Nobody who spoke in Thursday's House debate on the bill could find a good word to say for it

The chief argument used to win support was that the bill was better than none at all Failure to pass it would mean reverting to the 1958 program of unlimited production and high price supports that built up the present huge surpluses the House was told

I'm going to hold my nose and vote for it said Rep H R Gross R Iowa summing up the general attitude of the members

Dissatisfaction with the bill was deepest among representatives of the big cities who favored the more rigid controls of the administration bill

Proposes Deadline

Rep James Roosevelt D Calif offered an amendment to cut off price supports on all crops at the end of 1963

That will give you a year to write a decent farm bill said Roosevelt to rousing cheers from his city colleagues

I don't think we should stand here and have the city fellows come in and try to run the farm program countered Rep Harold D Cooley D N C chairman of the Agriculture Committee as he rallied the rural representatives to defeat the amendment 107 to 74

Bid Not Lowest, but Alabama Plant Receives U.S. Contract

Sen. Sparkman Denies He Used Influence in Award

BY CHARLES NICODEMUS
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — Defense contracts — like "stars" in the song—sometimes just fall on Alabama No one wants to take credit for the coincidences that guide them there

Such is the case with a $1 976,304 Army Signal Corps contract awarded to Illinois based Elgin National Watch Co—even though Elgin wasn't low bidder

Elgin plans to work half the contract in a Gadsman (Ala) plant which acquisition of the contract made it possible to lease

As does the recent arrest of two Signal Corps officials on bribe-taking charges. Elgin's experience provides insight into the effectiveness of the Defense Department's competitive bidding system used to buy billions of dollars in defense goods annually

Bobbing up repeatedly in the chain of circumstances that knocked two lower bidders out of the contract is the name of Sen John Sparkman (D-Ala) who made efforts on Elgin's behalf during its successful try to get an earlier $7 500 000 job

But Sparkman one of the Senate's most respected hardest working members, says "I had nothing to do with that particular contract"

Intervened Earlier

Sparkman intervened with the Army on behalf of Elgin in the earlier case because the firm — looking for a southern site to expand in — said it would do the job in Gadsden After it won the contract however Elgin said cost factors prohibited production there

But Sparkman and Gadsden — the home town of Lewis Odom Sparkman's administrative assistant — would not give up

Gross National Product Set at $552 Billion In Economics Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's Gross National Product reached an annual rate of $552 billion in the second quarter of this year President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers reported today

The second quarter figure was $7 billion higher than the $545 billion annual rate for the first quarter but nevertheless fell well below the administration's hopes It could have an important bearing on whether Kennedy asks for a tax cut this year to spur the economy

Kennedy predicted in January the GNP for 1962 would jump to a $570 billion rate for the full year compared with $518 7 billion in 1961

Deficit Under Forecast by $700 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress appeared pleased today but hardly excited at word that the government wound up its 1962 bookkeeping year with a budget deficit $700 million less than estimated in January The final red ink figure was $6 3 billion

None of the House members who commented on the development thought the moderately pleasant fiscal news would have much influence on any decision for an income tax cut now or later

Some thought, however, that even a modest reduction in the deficit would calm the nervousness of foreign holders of U S. dollars and therefore help the balance of payments deficit.

Revenue, Spending Down

Announcing the fiscal 1962 deficit, the Treasury said Thursday both income and spending were overestimated in January, when a $7-billion deficit was projected. Spending on defense, space, foreign and national security programs was down $248 million and other government agencies spent $1 1 billion less than anticipated.

But corporate income and other business-linked revenues were down also, more than offsetting a rise in personal income tax yield.

Charles A Halleck of Indiana, House Republican leader, expressed the reaction of many colleagues when he shrugged off the improvement in the deficit figure as too small to make any difference in anyone's plans

Breakthrough Claimed

Army's Nike Zeus Antimissile Test In Pacific Hailed as Major Success

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional supporters of the Army's Nike Zeus antimissile today hailed its first successful test as a major weapons breakthrough But the Defense Department maintained a [illegible] wait and see attitude

The Pentagon announced Thursday that a 48 foot Nike Zeus missile [fired] from Kwajalein in the mid-Pacific had intercepted a [target] [illegible] more than 4,500 [miles] from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California

No Actual Hit

The target vehicle launched by an Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile had flown in high trajectory at speeds up to 16,000 miles an hour

Sources indicated the Nike Zeus did not actually strike its warhead target but came close enough to have destroyed it if armed Neither the Nike Zeus nor the test warhead carried a nuclear charge

Thursday's success was the major development to date in a seven year program that has cost about $1 2 billion and could cost as much as $15 billion if the Nike Zeus ever is put into production

However there was nothing to indicate that Secretary of Defense Robert S McNamara had changed his position of long standing until a complete series of tests has been conducted there should be no start of production on hardware for the antimissile system

Rep George P Miller D Calif chairman of the House Space Committee said of Thursday's test high above the Pacific Marshall Islands atolls This represents the greatest breakthrough in our defense system The country that can come first with an antimissile weapon is in the driver's seat

And Sen Strom Thurmond D S C advocate of the Zeus and a reserve major general of the Army, said he hoped the test would open the eyes of military leaders he described as lukewarm toward the program

The successful test provided something tangible that the United States could use in answer to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's recent claim that Russia had global range missiles and antimissiles that could hit a fly in the sky The U S government took care to see that the report of the Nike Zeus success had the widest attention at home and overseas

Previous Test

But the fact remained that this was only one test with others more severe to come

Moreover it developed that there was a previous test which in the words of a Defense Department spokesman was not a complete success The spokesman declined to say what went wrong in that test But unofficial

U.S. Halts Economic Assistance to Peru

Drastic Step Is An Effort to Bring About Early Return to Civilian Democratic Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is cutting off aid to Peru in an effort to bring about an early return to civilian democratic government in the South American country.

Announcement of the cutoff of all except for relatively minor humanitarian assistance came late Thursday shortly after the White House had denounced the military takeover in Lima as dealing a serious setback to the cause of democracy in the Western Hemisphere.

President Kennedy has noted the developments in Peru with great concern, the White House statement said.

Drastic Steps

Washington officials said the drastic steps which have been taken by the administration to bring pressure on the military group which seized power in Peru Wednesday were considered essential to protect and promote Kennedy's aims for all of Latin America.

At least one more U.S. action is in prospect—the suspension of sugar purchases from Peru at premium prices. Peru's annual quota of sugar sales to the United States at present is 194,000 tons with a value to Peru of about $19 million.

Kennedy reportedly was motivated by several considerations in his decision to put his personal prestige behind what amounts to U.S. political and economic intervention in a situation traditionally regarded by the American nations as internal.

Alliance for Progress

For one thing, in launching the Alliance for Progress last year Kennedy committed himself to the promotion of broad, long-range social, political, economic and governmental reforms in Latin America according to the needs and growth capacities of the different countries which were willing to cooperate.

Another consideration in administration policy making in the present circumstances is that a military seizure of power such as that at Lima may prove to be contagious. Kennedy obviously wants to discourage the spread of military dictatorship wherever possible.

Still a third point in the minds of the President and his advisers, officials said, is the fact that Communist agitators operating in many nations to the south are certain to seize upon the military action in Peru as an argument to restless civilian populations that their only choice lies between dictatorship at one extreme and communism at the other. Kennedy obviously intends that the United States shall do everything possible to invalidate that argument.

Worth $81 Million

The decision to cut off aid shelves about $81 million worth of loans and grant assistance which the United States has committed to Peru since March 13, 1961, but has not yet actually paid off.

Another $9 million of Alliance assistance was given to Peru under the administration of deposed President Manuel Prado.

The humanitarian programs of aid which will be continued include the providing of school lunches to Peruvian children. The food for those meals, costing about $2 million a year, is already in the warehouses in Peru, officials here said.

Welfare Bill Reaches Desk Of President

Aims to Help Those On Relief Rolls Sustain Themselves

WASHINGTON (AP) —An administration bill aimed at encouraging families on the relief rolls to make themselves self-sustaining finally has reached President Kennedy's desk.

The Senate sent it to the White House Thursday night by voice vote after brief debate. The House had approved the measure earlier in the day 357 to 24.

The final $300-million version gives the President most of what he wanted in the way of revised welfare laws.

But the legislators added a congressional favorite of the last decade—an increase in federal matching funds available for monthly relief checks.

When the bill reached the Senate floor late last month the administration decided to try to hitch onto it the President's social security health care plan for the aged. This failed Tuesday on a 52-48 vote.

Praised by Ribicoff

Considering only the welfare law changes, Abraham Ribicoff hailed the measure as the most important of his 18 months as secretary of welfare.

The bill is of high importance to a number of states because it extends retroactively to July 1 a program of federal funds for payments to unemployed parents of dependent children. This means they will be reimbursed for expenditures made under this program so far this month.

Other key provisions will:

—Effective Oct. 1, increase by $4 a month per recipient federal matching funds for the needy aged, blind and disabled programs.

—Raise from 50 to 75 per cent the federal share of the cost of training programs aimed at rehabilitation of relief recipients.

—Authorize states to set up work and training programs for able-bodied relief recipients.

—Make available federal aid for day care of children of working mothers.

—Allow the states to disregard the first $10 earned by an old age assistance recipient, plus half of the next $40, in figuring his monthly relief payment.

Eastern Flight Engineers May Lose Positions

Airline Calling Upon Copilots to Take Over Jobs

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Striking flight engineers faced today a choice of returning to their Eastern Air Lines jobs or risking replacement by other employes.

The big carrier called upon 80 jet copilots to qualify for flight engineer assignment on jets. Eastern said it would put the copilots in flight engineer posts not manned on or before July 24 by the engineers.

It was the first operational move Eastern has made to resume service which suspended June 23 after the Flight Engineers International Association struck over issues which included qualifications for jet crews.

Talks Break Down

Management's action came after negotiations broke down in Washington Thursday night, and the government canceled settlement efforts for the present. Negotiators reportedly had neared agreement on the crucial crew makeup issue but could not settle a money question.

Eastern said all flight engineers who go back to work will retain priority rights on jets and the copilots will not take flight engineer jobs away from any present flight engineer who reports by the deadline.

The line said that in addition to replacing holdout flight engineers, the copilots would be available to operate during the temporary period when returning flight engineers get company-paid training to qualify for pilot-engineer positions.

Hopes for Resumption

How soon the copilots can qualify for flight engineer work depends on individuals, Eastern said.

A spokesman said that Eastern, the nation's second largest carrier, hopes to be able to resume some flights by July 24.

The company apparently based its hopes on a belief that the copilots would cross engineers' picket lines because the labor dispute is essentially a jurisdictional one.

The engineers union called the walkout in disagreement over who would occupy the third seat when jet crews are reduced from four to three. Both the Air Line Pilots Association and the engineers union want that third seat.

Washington sources said the two sides moved close on some issues Thursday night and had settled, or practically settled, the crew question. But the talks reportedly broke up when the company insisted its pay increase offer would not be made retroactive because of financial losses due to the strike.

No 'Oohs' and 'Ahs' for Telstar Telephone Chat; Newsmen Blase

BY MILT FREUDENHEIM
Chicago Daily News Service

NEW YORK — I talked to London through outer space via a sissy-looking aqua-colored phone and the satellite Telstar 3,500 miles above the earth.

If you are reading this expecting "oohs" and "ahs" of admiration, please turn to the comic page.

In the first place, the connection was terrible. The British newsman on the other end of the circuit had to spell nearly everything.

Secondly — like most of mankind's fabulous space age achievements — it was a fantastically great gadget, with no new thoughts to justify it.

Note in a Bottle

"If you don't have anything historic to say," a wise neighbor of mine remarked, "why don't you just put a note in a bottle and throw it in the Atlantic?"

Alex McLeod, London correspondent for the Scotsman of Edinburgh, must have agreed.

He decided at the last minute to skip our historic space chat and go cover a "very important Scottish dinner" instead.

His replacement, Michael Lake, 25, a New Zealander who writes about economics and industry for the Scotsman, was polite but uninformative.

Nothing to justify sending blips on an 8,400-mile trip from New York to Andover, Me., to Telstar, to Goonhilly Downs to London.

Behind me in the American Telephone & Telegraph auditorium on lower 6th Ave., British newsmen were flashing London with the all-important (to them) but contradictory assertion:

"We're first to earth!"

Load of Statistics

The staid Times of London transmitted a statistic-loaded report on prospects for regular Satellite news transmission: four satellites by the end of 1962 and prospects for the necessary 20 by 1966.

The racy London Daily Express reminded its 4,500,000 readers that Al Jolson's first words on commercial sound film were "You ain't heard nothing yet."

The Express followed with a spattering of American crime and sex items their readers like.

A Dutch correspondent spaced phoned a fill-in on the Netherlands - Indonesia talks about New Guinea.

I asked what Europe has to exchange for the Kennedy presidential press conference to be relayed via Telstar next week.

"We wish we could give you the parliamentary debate on the latest British cabinet changes," was Lake's reply. "But that is forbidden."

"What does Britain think of the Saskatchewan doctors' strike?" I asked. "We're astonished, shocked," Lake said, laboriously spelling out words to pierce the jerky interruptions of signal.

"We have a mere strike of nurses," he reported.

After we got off the line, I felt like the man who was dragged kicking and screaming into the 20th Century.

My first thought of the newborn newspaper space age: "I wonder if they spiked McLeod's Scotch broth at his 'very important' Scottish dinner?"

'New Car Smell' Helps Slickers Defraud Buyers

NEW YORK (AP)—Some one has figured out how to package in a can that distinctive odor of a new car. What's more, Queens Dist. Atty. Frank O'Connor said Thursday some slick auto peddlers have been using it to sell used cars as new.

He said investigation of 20 complaints made recently to his office showed one "new" car which had been driven 10,000 miles and another at least 12,000.

The doctoring, he explained, included turning back speedometers, repainting motors, replacing worn foot pedals and door knobs and "that pretty new-car smell was sprayed."

Alliance for Progress Moving Rapidly to Its Moment of Truth

U.S. Becoming Aware That Meaning of Democracy Varies

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN

Latin American events these days suggest that President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress is heading rapidly toward its moment of truth.

The Alliance is cast in the role of nervous mortician, waiting for the death rattle of a moribund system. But the patient is struggling desperately to survive. And the struggle is churning up revolutionary ferment.

The well intentioned Yankees often can do little but stand on the sidelines and wring their hands in frustration. They are becoming painfully aware that democracy as it is known in the United States has little meaning in nations where the vast majority are impoverished and illiterate.

Life Struggle

The Public Affairs Institute in Washington released a study today picturing the Alliance for Progress as engaged in "a life and death struggle with completely unscrupulous men who seek power through violent means."

The Alliance, it says, has failed to make itself believable to key groups in Latin America that will determine whether change will be peaceful or violent. It urges the program to aim its benefits directly at those groups on a people-to-people rather than government-to-government basis.

"The odds against your success are so great," the institute tells the Alliance, "that unless you change direction of our aid and the methods of operation very quickly, you are likely to fail in your great task."

Another Danger

But there is danger in this approach, too. It implies end runs around existing governments that could, in the long run, undermine them. And whatever they may be, these governments are all the Alliance has at the present time to work with.

The struggle of military leaders and entrenched oligarchies to survive spurs the battle-scarred old Argentine Socialist leader, Alfredo Palacios, to comment that the new military takeover in Peru was "one more example of the situation Latin America is going through."

"Some time ago," he said, "President Kennedy stated that Latin America was going through a revolution. I think the action by armed forces in the continent indicates they have resorted to violence at the service of reactionary revolution. It cannot be said chaos is coming. We live in chaos."

Communists don't worry about military dictatorships. They welcome them as indicative of the last stage before violent popular revolution.

Implicitly, the Alliance for Progress sought to contribute to a merciful death for the antiquated systems. It asked those in power to reform in return for aid that might provide orderly progression to a more humane distribution of rights, privileges and wealth.

The message does not seem to get across. Waiting in the wings are organized extremists, waiting to pick up the pieces if the Alliance fails.

Unions Plan Vote On Contracts for Aerospace Jobs

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Spokesmen for two unions say they will hold mass meetings Saturday and Sunday to vote on contract proposals by three major aerospace companies.

A nationwide strike at plants and missile bases is set Monday.

Negotiators for the United Aerospace Workers and the International Association of Machinists already have disapproved the offers. But they were to be submitted to the employes for a final determination.

The three firms — Lockheed, North American and General Dynamics — described the contract proposals Thursday as equal or better than a tentative agreement reached earlier this week at Douglas Aircraft.

Union negotiators in Los Angeles said that the latest offers did not contain provisions for some type of union security, such as an agency shop, requiring union fees be paid by non-union employes.

House Passes Farm Bill by 229-163 Vote

ranking Republicans on the Agriculture Committee, pleaded successfully against making any changes that might upset the delicate bipartisan agreement that carried the bill through.

Under the bill the acreage under both the corn and wheat programs that could be retired voluntarily in exchange for government payments would be increased from 40 per cent of the base acreage to 50 per cent.

Wisconsin Vote

The dairy provision would pay farmers up to $2.50 for each hundred weight of milk by which they voluntarily reduce production.

Members of the Wisconsin House delegation split 6 to 3 in their vote on the bill.

Voting for the measure were Reps. Robert W. Kastenmeir, Clement J. Zablocki, Henry S. Reuss, Lester R. Johnson, all Democrats, and Vernon Thomson and Alvin O'Konski, Republicans.

Opposed to the bill were Reps. Melvin R. Laird, William K. Van Pelt and Henry C. Schadeberg, all Republicans.

Rep. John Byrnes, Green Bay, was called to Wisconsin on official business regarding reapportionment and did not vote. He was "paired" against the measure as an indication of his disapproval.

Novikov Gets New Soviet Post

MOSCOW (AP) — Deputy Premier Vladimir N. Novikov, removed earlier this week as head of the Soviet state planning committee has been appointed to the economic coordinating apparatus of the Soviet bloc.

The appointment was announced Thursday night by Tass, which said Novikov retains his title of deputy premier of the Soviet Union.

He was replaced as head of the Soviet planning committee by his deputy, Veniamin E. Dymshits. Dymshits was also named a deputy premier, the first Jew to hold such a post since Lazar M. Kaganovich was purged in 1957.

Strauss Urged To Remain in Defense Post

Previously, West German Official Had Been Whipping Boy

Chicago Daily News Service

BONN — Franz-Josef Strauss, West Germany's energetic and contentious minister of defense, is having a rare and pleasant experience these days.

Colleagues and friends and even some of his political opponents are telling how good he is and how essential they feel it is that he remain in his post.

Strauss, 47, has been the whipping boy for the whole vast project of German rearming and the target of a savage press campaign. He has been harried in the courts and "investigated" by a parliamentary committee that has still to complete its report.

Recently he has felt he was not getting the backing he should from Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and the government majority in the bundestag. He plainly was fed up with Bonn and about 10 days ago he let it be known that he might go back to his native Bavaria to be minister president there, a post that is almost certainly his for the asking after the Bavarian elections in November.

Ever since he has been under the heaviest kinds of pressures to remain. He has had three long talks with the elderly chancellor and today Strauss is meeting with the executive committee of the Bavarian deputies here.

He may make his decision this weekend. The betting is now that he will stay in Bonn, with some reluctance.

Strauss has been minister of defense since 1956 and has done a remarkable job. Almost single-handed, he has translated the paper plans into a functioning army that is assuming a steadily growing role in NATO European defenses.

Adenauer has urged him to remain until this process is completed in another two or three years and until the NATO reforms that are now in the mill become effective.

Public Payrollers Increasing Faster Than Taxpayers

Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — Public payrollers are increasing at a much faster rate than tax-paying workers.

The employment figures just released by the Department of Labor reveal that there were 60,529,000 people working in this country in June, 1962.

In June of 1961 there were 68,706,000 people employed.

This was an increase of about 1.2 per cent in one year in the total number of people working.

But the number of people employed by state, local, and federal governments increased from 8,797,000 in June, 1961, to 9,158,000 in June, 1962.

This is a net increase of about 4 per cent in one year.

The uneven expansion of public payroll jobs as compared with private industry jobs from which taxes are derived has been a feature of the employment picture in this country for several years. In nine years the total of workers on public payrolls has increased by nearly one-half.

reports were that failure in the second stage of the Zeus rocket engine was responsible.

McNamara's official statement that accompanied the department's announcement was reserved. He said the test showed that the program is intended to present the "capabilities and limitations of antimissile systems."

Then he turned to the topic of ICBM development, saying that the United States is carrying on a program "to insure that our missiles will penetrate antimissile systems which might be encountered" and that there is confidence our missiles can get through any antimissile systems developed by anyone.

World Court Rules U.N. Members Must Support Operations

THE HAGUE (AP)—The International Court of Justice advised the United Nations today that all its members should pay for U.N. peace-keeping operations.

By a 9-5 vote the 14 high judges decided that U.N. members, such as the Soviet Union, France and most of the Arab States in arrears on assessments for the costs of peace-keeping operations amounting to $80 million, should pay up.

ment under the judicial authority.

The joint resolution reapportionment scheme, meanwhile, will serve to back up the Republican political posture in the reapportionment fight—the claim that the legislature is willing to do its duty on the subject, but that it has been thwarted by the governor.

Three bills have thus far been passed by the legislature. Each has been rejected by Nelson, who accompanied each of his vetoes with stinging attacks upon the Republicans designed to create an election issue for the fall.

The Republican position is that "we're willing, but Nelson won't let us."

If they put through another redistricting on their own authority, and either Reynolds or Nelson brings a law-suit to challenge its validity, they feel that their campaign record will be strengthened.

Most Republicans are reasonably sure that the election outlook favors them in the fall, and that in the 1963 legislature the Republican majority will have the backing and collaboration of a friendly Republican governor.

State Senate Approves New Districting Plans

ic senators present when the debate was kicked off and they vowed to stay all night to halt the action. Three other Democratic senators were recorded in opposition to the measure on the vote, but they were paired with Republican senators and not present for the filibuster.

Other Long Speeches

Thompson held the floor longest and as midnight arrived he noted by his watch that a new day had arrived and wished his weary colleagues "good morning."

Democrats Lynn Stalbaum of Racine, Casimir Kendziorski of Milwaukee delivered long speeches denouncing the resolution. Although he did not speak, Sen. Leland McParland, D - Cudahy, stood ready to do so if needed.

It became apparent, however, that Republican senators were determined to adopt the resolution and Democrats finally agreed to halt the filibuster.

Democrats repeated over and over that the Republican majority had no right to legislate.

"You just can't squirm around the executive and judicial branch of government with a resolution like this," Stalbaum thundered.

Validity Challenged

"This is a serious point of law," he said, contending that the resolution could not repeal the statute under which present political districts exist.

Kendziorski said it was his opinion it would take "a mad court or a mad judge to declare this constitutional."

Republicans argued that the constitution does not require legislative districts to be reapportioned by a law which could only be put on the books with the governor's signature or enacted by the Legislature over the governor's veto.

Republicans came to the debate armed with a Legislative Reference Library study which stated that there is some doubt as to the necessity for submitting a reapportionment measure to the governor.

Lists Court Decisions

Thompson delivered a lecture on three cases decided by the U. S. Supreme Court in 1932 which, he said, made it clear the resolution was illegal.

"If a governor has the veto power," Thompson said, "he must participate in legislative action."

In making the point that he believed strong democratic forms of government are based on a division of power between the executive and legislative branches of government, Thompson managed to discuss the governments of the Greek city states, Puerto Rico, Peru, Brazil, Cuba, Russia, America and England.

Dean summed up Democratic opposition to the move by saying "it is a matter of principle and we're not going to be a party to the fraud of an unconstitutional resolution."

Nebraska Works on Research

Nebraska, like every other agricultural state, has a farm problem. Mounting surpluses and lower farm income have produced serious problems for Nebraska just as they have in Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois and other states.

Nebraska, however, is trying to do something about the farm problem by relying on its own resources rather than turning the problem over to the federal government.

In 1959, the Nebraska legislature set up a fund raised by a 10 cents per $1,000 property tax. The fund, totaling about $300,000 annually, is used to support research into finding new industrial uses for existing Nebraska crops and new marketable crops which can be grown in Nebraska.

A great deal of the research financed by the Nebraska fund is being conducted in Wisconsin, particularly at the Institute of Paper Chemistry here. Recently, the Institute was host to a meeting of all research groups being financed by Nebraska.

Scientists discussed the projects on which they were working. Institute researchers told of their experiments to use more Nebraska-produced corn starch in paper making.

Others told of projects involving such products as castor beans, soy beans and other products.

Nebraska officials indicate that results so far have been encouraging. Agricultural income has been increased and industrial production stimulated.

Under the plan, all patents resulting from the research are assigned to the state of Nebraska. The state then in turn licenses manufacturers and producers to use the patents.

Preference is given to Nebraska manufacturers or to concerns which will locate plants in Nebraska.

There is no assurance that such a program will solve the farm problem in Nebraska. There is no assurance that such a program would work in every state.

But the idea is certainly worth exploring here in Wisconsin. Milk surpluses are mounting.

There are numerous industrial uses for milk products and by-products now. There are undoubtedly many more.

Nebraska has taken the lead in promoting agricultural research. Other states should watch this experiment carefully. They may benefit greatly.

The Peace Corps Succeeds

When the Peace Corps was proposed and put into action a little more than a year ago it was condemned and criticized for a number of reasons. It was accused of being just another do-gooder scheme which would win us more contempt than friends. It was cited as a job dug up for another of President Kennedy's relatives or in-laws. A lot of people expected it to fizzle out in a few months.

But the Peace Corps seems to have actually turned out to be something of a remarkable success. It will presumably not change the hardhearted or make war any less imminent. But it has been demonstrating on an ever-increasing scale the good will of American men and women.

The Peace Corps is a definitely American institution. Americans are handy people even this far away from the last frontier. They are good teachers, excellent mechanics, skilled nurses and adept farmers. They are not content merely to use their abilities for themselves. For some reason they want to lend their know-how to others. This tendency has been widely criticized and has its drawbacks. One reason Americans were so kind to Khrushchev on his United States tour was so he could see how successful we were. Europeans and Asians have often complained that Americans have no time or use for anything except their own way of doing things and their own products whether it's central heating or ice cream cones.

But whether the members of Peace Corps wanted to show off or put up they are being highly effective. Instead of scorning the dirt and disease, the ignorance and apathy, they are finding ways of routing them out. Except for one wayward postcard, there has been little evidence of Peace Corps members insulting the people with whom they live. Their work has been remarkably free of incidents and mistakes despite the wide divergence in education and standards and the willingness of anti-Americans to seize every opportunity to discredit them.

In these days of the Fat American, the self-indulgence, child spoiling and soft living, the Peace Corps members are demonstrating either that Americans have been sadly misrepresented or that our easy living conditions have no lasting effect. And among the considerable amount of inhumanity demonstrated around the world today the Peace Corps members are showing an unselfish intention to help that is unprecedented except by religious missionary organizations.

Naming Political Donors

A line of commendation is due Chairman Patrick Lucey of the Democratic state committee for his decision to identify fully, by complete names and addresses, the contributors of funds to the party which are required to be reported for the public record under the Wisconsin election laws.

Politicians of Wisconsin over the years have exploited the fact that the law is not specific in requiring such complete identification, in reporting so incompletely as to make the documents often quite useless.

The intention of the campaign report law was to provide information to the electorate, or such part of the electorate that might want to examine the returns.

Failing the legislature's enactment of clarifying amendments eliminating the loopholes that now exist, the conscientious party manager or campaign club chairman ought to follow what was obviously the intent of the framers of the system. That Mr. Lucey is now doing, and we congratulate him.

To say that H. Smith of New York contributed money to a party may fulfill the technical requirements of the statute. But it falls far short of the spirit, for such an identification disguises the donor as effectively as would the attribution of the donation to X Y Z.

Why Stop at Contractors? License Public Servants, Reader Quips

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Monday, July 16th, the Post Crescent contained an article concerning the Welfare Committee's efforts in formulating a new building code which would license contractors and would thus protect the public's interest. It would seem this is one more step in the popular trend of elected and appointed public servants to formulate regulations to protect the public, or voters, by whom they were elected or appointed.

This may be a step in the right direction, so let's take a broader view, for the public doesn't like to be defrauded by anyone. If licensing contractors will guarantee high standards and give the public protection, then let's increase the coverage to include more important categories.

Public Servants

For example, the public really has no actual guarantee as to the competency of its public servants. So let's require each of them to take competency examinations and issue each one a license to protect the public's interest. After all, the scope of all governmental agencies increases constantly. More funds are spent by them each year, and where do we, the public, need more protection than in this area? Substandard construction in a house by an unscrupulous contractor is penny-ante stuff compared with unscrupulous government practices. Since the risk of loss is so much greater, the licensing of public servants should be of the strictest type to assure that honest value will be received for the taxes the public pays.

Also it is said that the licensing of doctors, lawyers, teachers, bartenders, sewer contractors, electricians, beauticians, undertakers, accountants, car drivers, and others too numerous to mention, has given the public protection — and all of this licensing was done in the interest of the public.

So, if this be true, let's increase the public's protection to the ultimate by licensing everyone in every job and in every endeavor he undertakes. By doing this we can give the public really complete protection. After all, nearly everything anyone does affects the public interest. Surely public sidewalks in front of homes would be safer if snow were removed by homeowners who were licensed snow shovelers or by hired licensed shovelers if the home owner so [illegible] meet licensing requirements and standards. Also, the highways would be safer if tire checking attendants in gas stations were licensed to assure competency. Shoe store clerks should be licensed too, for improper fitting of children's shoes could lead to ultimate rejection of armed forces recruits thereby endangering our national security, which surely is not in the public's best interests. No doubt, everyone reading this letter can think of endless persons to license.

So let's all work diligently to require licenses for every citizen and every job he performs. Why be half safe?

Congress's Record Short on Action

From the Salt Lake City Desert News

When Congress finally adjourns, it now seems likely it will have passed only a relatively small portion of the major legislative proposals before it.

Of these major bills, Congress so far has passed the job retraining bill and killed measures that would have banned literacy tests for voters, established a Department of Urban Affairs, and put agriculture under stringent controls.

Action is still pending on 21 top legislative items. Among those in trouble are medical care for the aged under Social Security, federal aid to public schools, the withholding tax on dividends, standby power to cut taxes, tighter controls on business mergers, standby power to step up public works, and an overhaul of the jobless pay system.

If Congress acts on only a small number of these items — and time is running out — partisans undoubtedly will cite this record as justification for calling it a "do nothing" Congress.

But Congress should be judged on the basis of the quality of legislation it enacts, not on mere quantity.

In this connection, much of the proposed legislation that seems likely to fall by the wayside during the current congressional session is not as urgent as its backers might have us believe. The republic has survived quite nicely without them for a good many years now and probably will continue to do so.

The fall elections will tell whether Congress was right or wrong in passing so few bills — or in acting with such thorough [illegible] depending on one's [illegible]

[illegible] the popular will, then its members will suffer accordingly at the polls.

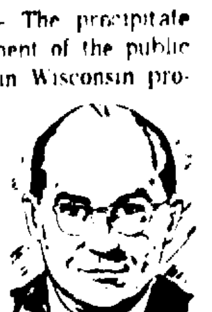

On the other hand, if the electorate does not rebuff Congress at the ballot box, the obvious conclusion will be that those who were insisting their bills were "urgent" or had overwhelming popular support may well have been out of touch with the wants and needs of the people.

Debt Continues to Rise in Wisconsin

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The precipitate upward movement of the public debt curve in Wisconsin provides an interesting footnote to the consistency, or lack thereof, of the politicians.

Wyngaard

Four years ago one of the keynotes of the successful Democratic drive for the capture of the statehouse was what was described as an alarming total of local government long-term debt and, moreover, the evidence that the rate of increase in that debt was rising.

Nobody can ever quite determine what issues raised by the politicians provide the margins of victory in the elections, but the emphasis upon this issue — as a part of the need for general Wisconsin tax and finance revision — suggested that the Democratic challengers from Gaylord Nelson down through the rest of the ticket had considerable confidence in it.

The debt total of that period was, indeed, substantial, and the rise in the years immediately preceding was significant. Yet in the years since there has been an increase of about 50 per cent above that worrisome total of four years ago, but today the disclosure passes utterly without comment.

THE STORY

There is no intention here to suggest that the total of Wisconsin public debt has yet reached dangerous dimensions.

In terms of the legal limit, which is conservatively set, and considering the state as a whole, there is a considerable cushion of debt capacity remaining. But more and more of the individual cities, villages and counties (the latter to a lesser degree) are apparently reaching their individual legal maximum of long term obligations.

Moreover, the ratio of increase is such that sooner or later the total debt picture of the state must command serious attention. The era of inflation has brought about a vast increase in the total of assessed valuation of taxable property, to which the debt structure is anchored. Thus for many years after World War II, localities could borrow considerably higher amounts without increasing their debt in relation to their valuation — which is the true measure of the size of public indebtedness.

But all that has changed, and abruptly. At the end of the 1940 decade, the ratio of long-term debt in Wisconsin in relation to valuation stood at about $10 per $1,000, which was a minor burden.

Today it stands at around $40. When Gaylord Nelson was raising alarums about it only four years ago it stood at around $30, and he found in that figure proof of the need for drastic reorganization of the state-local finance relationship as a means of stabilizing local fiscal foundations.

THE ANSWER

The debt curve cannot be cut back, or even slowed down, without immensely increased state participation in the current expenditures of local government.

A start was made in more generous financing assistance from the state treasury in the adoption of the selective sales tax a year ago, the income of which for the most part was pledged to local budgets, and to the relief of personal property taxation. Yet the increase in local government receipts has been enough only to stabilize local tax rates for a year — or perhaps two years. It will do little or nothing to arrest the debt curve. By 1964 its effect on the local tax rates, in fact, for the most part will have been absorbed.

The lesson here is that the task of tax revision in Wisconsin has only been begun. The beginning in the compromise of the Republican legislature and the Democratic governor last year was a useful one, in the sense that it broke the ice, in a manner of speaking.

Yet there is little disposition among some of the politicians today to acknowledge that the task remains unfinished. It may be that the pressure of the accelerating local debt burden, combined with property taxation for local operations budget, will provide the incentive to take up the task again.

Our Sen. Howe Says, Arm Slaves

A bill was before the U. S. Senate on Friday amending the act of 1795, calling out the militia, so as to include slaves. The wives, children and mothers of such persons so serving are freed by the bill.

Browning of Illinois moved to latter provision and lost. He then moved to amend, declaring that such mother, wife or child shall not be freed unless they owe service to the rebels.

Mr. Cowan of Pennsylvania spoke in favor of the amendment. He said the country had prospered under the Constitution and we are bound to observe it.

Sen. Howe of Wisconsin said there seemed to be some difficulty as how we should support our generals. There were too many delays and controversies.

City Council Fails to Protect Public's Rights on North Street

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Wednesday evening the City Council buried in four separate committees Alderman George Buckley's recommendation that the city act to protect the rights of the public in the use of North Street between North Oneida and North Superior Streets. It is reported that one alderman later remarked in a tavern, "We fixed Buckley's and Baldwin's clock tonight — we sent that railroad barricade [illegible] ness of theirs to [illegible] different committees. It [illegible] time it gets back on the [illegible] floor."

[illegible] Buckley have an [illegible] axe to grind [illegible] thing [illegible] of citizens and taxpayers.

[illegible] property owners [illegible] of North Street [illegible] undertook to [illegible] what the city should have [illegible] for them but for all citizens. If they are denied access to their properties on North Street, the usefulness and value of these lands will be greatly [illegible] and Forty and Eight [illegible] business would be completely destroyed if they had no access.

However, the entire citizenry of Appleton and the public would also lose. Gone would be the dream of connecting Packard and North Streets, thereby alleviating east-west traffic in the city, unless, of course, the city is willing to pay the railroad's price willingly. Gone would be the city's bargaining position of claiming this right of easement which almost assuredly can be established in the courts. There is no question but that the city should it wish to widen these streets, would pay [illegible] right of way.

Obviously, it is inequitable to expect the few property owners on this section of North Street to bear the burden alone. Should the easement be established as a matter of law, and we feel reasonably confident that it can be, the public at large would achieve the greatest good and the city a windfall, which it did not see fit to strive for. These abutting property owners should not, therefore, be called upon to finance the entire proceedings [illegible] unless the city joins [illegible] conceivable that this attempt to establish the public's right might have to be abandoned.

Bid Not Lowest but Firm Given Contract

dent, said Sparkman's office told Elgin in effect

"You're still interested in other government jobs. Take an option on the Gadsden plant any way, and we'll get you the contracts to work in it."

Odom denies this, saying he merely "suggested" that Elgin might want to consider optioning the Gadsden plant "in hopes that something might come along."

That "something" came on May 24, when Elgin was awarded a $1,976,000 contract for multichannel field telegraph equipment, and announced that half the job would be worked in Gadsden.

Lower Bids Fail

The two lower bidders that had fallen by the wayside were

Model Engineering Co., Huntington, Ind., a well-known electronics firm with considerable defense contract experience. Bid $1,314,929.

Consad Corp., Santa Monica, Calif., a small newcomer to the field, with only limited signal corps work under contract. Bid $1,513,827, more than 20 per cent below Elgin.

Here's what happened to them.

The Signal Corps rejected Consad's bid and on April 26 turned it over to the Small Business Administration for review.

When the government questions the capacity of a small firm like Consad, U.S. law permits the company to appeal to the SBA for an examination and a ruling on its competency. Consad appealed.

After scrutinizing Consad's finances, technical capacity and other factors, a team from the SBA regional field offices in Los Angeles gave the firm a ringing endorsement. And when another SBA official suggested the need for added financing, the firm went out and got it.

Reports to Washington

The chief of the SBA field office then recommended unqualified approval and sent the report to Washington.

There, the top man is SBA administrator John Horne — Sen. Sparkman's former administrative assistant.

Sparkman heads the Senate Small Business Committee and Horne — as does Odom now — also held the committee's chief counsel job.

SBA headquarters overruled the Los Angeles office.

Alerted to the impending action by inside sources, Consad's president, Robert Snoyer, retained a prominent Washington attorney — formerly in the Justice Department — to check with friends in SBA and find out why.

The attorney was told that there apparently were "a number of smaller problems." But the big stumbling block was that SBA supposedly had checked Consad's proposed suppliers and found that a key one — who was to supply metal covers for the equipment — couldn't deliver on time.

A reporter later probing the case was told by the supplier that it was never checked directly or indirectly by the SBA.

Queried by the Chicago Daily News on the reasons for its action, SBA refused to disclose them, saying that was "confidential information bearing on Consad." When a reporter received Consad permission to seek the answers, Administrator Horne said:

"We can't divulge that information to you even if Consad approves. It would establish a bad precedent. It's against the law. We can only tell the firm itself."

As of July 19 — two months after the rejection — Consad still had not received an official explanation for the decision.

The SBA sent word of its action by telephone, on Wednesday, May 16, to Harvey Walton, contracting officer in Signal Corps supply headquarters in Philadelphia.

That left Model Engineering the low bidder.

Proposes Delay

Instead of awarding the contract, however, Walton telegraphed Model on May 17 asking them if they would extend their bid and prices for 30 days. "All bids were due to expire May 19, 60 days after they had been offered."

Said George Manis, Model's president:

"We had no idea we were low bidder, nor that the contract would be awarded the next week, or naturally we would have extended.

"Not knowing, however, the request put us in an impossible position.

"That time of year — the middle of May, near the end of the U.S. fiscal year — hundreds of contracts are being let. Everyone knows that no middle-sized firm like ours can afford to sit around waiting then. You have to go after other business.

"We were particularly reluctant to gamble because the Signal Corps people who came here to survey our plant and capacities gave us the distinct impression they didn't want us."

Extension Rejected

So on Friday, May 18, Manis wired Philadelphia that Model would not extend its bid. Manis' receipt shows that the wire reached Signal Corps offices at 6 p.m. that evening.

On the next working day, Monday, May 21, the decision to award the Contract to Elgin was made in Philadelphia. The Signal Corps Washington contract office was notified Tuesday, May 22, and the award was announced Thursday, May 26.

Why wasn't Model given the award, notified it was low bidder or asked for a shorter extension? Why had Philadelphia moved so fast to give the contract to Elgin when it had not done so with Model?

The Signal Corps, asked these questions through the Defense Department's chief of information, said it would "take some time" to come up with the answers.

Decision No Surprise

Thomas Leddy, Elgin executive vice president, acknowledged that Elgin was not surprised by the action. He said a Signal Corps official, surveying Elgin's facilities several weeks before the award, told him "the two lower bidders are going to be disqualified."

Leddy said he was told that "one of the firms (Consad) didn't have the plant capacity and the other (Model) was overextended."

"Three weeks ago the Signal Corps gave Model a $1,600,000 contract."

On May 8, more than two weeks before the contract was awarded, Sen. Sparkman and Elgin put out a joint press release announcing that Elgin was finally in a position to commit itself to Gadsden.

Didn't Know of Contract

However, both Leddy and Sparkman's office said this week that there was "nothing in particular" that led them to make the announcement at that time.

Sen. Sparkman declared that personally he didn't even know about the second contract until [illegible]

What's being done?

Several leading film makers have proposed labor-management conferences to attempt some streamlining of production. So far the unions have shown no willingness to alter the status quo. Whether they will need to depends on whether Hollywood can find some other way to halt the downward spiral of film production.

National Air Show to Open

Will Feature Aerial Acrobatics, Flight Cavalcade, Display

SHEBOYGAN — The far famed National Air Shows, featuring some of the world's most outstanding aerial acrobatics, will highlight the two-day dedication program for Sheboygan County's recently completed Memorial Airport, Saturday and Sunday, July 28-29.

The Sheboygan County port is located about midway between Sheboygan and Plymouth, about a mile west of the junction of State Highway 32 and County Trunk O.

Planned to be one of Wisconsin's all-time major aerial events, the program will also feature a Cavalcade of Flight with aircraft from the World War I "Jennies" to the present jets. Wisconsin Sky Divers in delayed parachute jumps, C-119 cargo planes in mass flyovers, P-51 Mustang fighters in precision flying, an F-102 scramble mission from Madison's Truax Field, and numerous other moving events.

On display at the port will be Polaris and Mace missiles, World War I Spad and Bleriot planes, helicopters, Vampire jet, Navy S2F patrol craft and Navy T34 trainer, and Air Force C47, C119 and C123.

Included in the two-hour National Air Shows program, featured last winter over the nation-ally televised "Wide World of Sports," will be skywriting, 50-star American flag para-jump, dual formation team flying, light plane precision flying demonstration, car to plane transfer, comedy-bat-cs light plane power acrobatics, grand national championship precision aerobatics, inverted ribbon pick-up and the amazing bat man in a parachute glide to earth.

Heading a delegation of aviation dignitaries for the 1 p.m. Saturday dedication will be Air Force Brig. Gen. Kenneth H. Gibson, commander of the Chicago air defense area, and Thomas K. Jordan, director of the Wisconsin Aeronautics Commission.

The Sunday memorial rite in honor of all Sheboygan County airmen who gave their lives in recent wars, will be headed by Navy Capt. J. M. Hermanson, assistant chief of staff for personnel, Ninth Naval District, Great Lakes, Ill.

Admission charge at the airport gate will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children, with an additional 25 cents charge for bleacher seats.

Elephants Star Today At Circus

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 (Channel 4-5) — International Showtime visits the Grande Cirque de Paris on this week's repeat, and the high spot is the Bouglione Elephants.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 2) — Most of the first 45 minutes of Route 66's repeat just sets the stage for the big scene. Tod (Martin Milner) is employed as a test driver for a marine engine manufacturer, and he gets to test-drive the new motor in a big race on Lake Havasu, near Klingman, Ariz. This scene is a pictorial beauty.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 4-5)—Robert Taylor's Detectives' repeat features Ronnie Dapo, who is currently the small son on Room For One More. Here he plays the son of Detective Russo (Tige Andrews). This is a change of pace for this show: no real crime is committed, although a bit of extortion is attempted.

8-9 (Channel 11)—The basic plot of 77 Sunset Strip's repeat is a routine inside robbery, with Efrem Zimbalist Jr. working for an insurance company to find the insider who engineered it.

8:30-9:30 (Channel 4-5) — Producer Eugene Jones of The World of Jimmy Doolittle, repeated tonight, leaves no doubt about how he feels about his subject. "We liked this man!" he says emphatically. And you will, too, for Doolittle's spirit shines through this fine film biography.

* * *

9-10:30 (Channel 2)—A small-time crook, at his wife's instigation robs an antique shop. The haul seems unimpressive, even the camera he snatches, but this is The Twilight Zone. The repeat goes on to show the crook snapping a picture of his wife and when it is developed (it provides instant pictures) wifey is seen in a fur coat although she doesn't own one. Almost immediately a similar coat is found in their room and our pair realize they have a camera which shoots the future.

10:20-12 (Channel 4-5) — Tonight's guest is Jack Kelly (Color).

Business Dip Began Before Steel Dispute

Economic Solutions Were Available to Kennedy All of 1961

Y DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Most people re have an idea that the Kenne- administration's troubles and e downturn in usiness actually egan when the resi d e n t in pril 1962 as- iled the steel ecutives f o r ying to raise ices. Yet many the remedies eing proposed day to help event a seri- s depression were being sug- sted, to no avail, month after onth in the year 1961 by busi- ssmen generally.

This correspondent talked with any economists and other well- formed men in the business orld and wrote several dispatch- throughout 1961 setting forth e reasons why businessmen ere uneasy. Here are some ex- rpts that tell the story:

March 16, 1961: "The current cession is supposed to be 'touch- g bottom,' and 'signs of an up- rn' are being noted even as an- recession measures of various nds have yet to be considered Congress. But the real ques- on before the country is what is ing to be done to prevent the cession that seems sure to come ter the brief period of economic covery which lies ahead.

More Recessions

"This s but another way of ying that the Kennedy adminis- ation, despite its large number economic advisers, has failed come to grips with the basic use of the present recession d the certain cause of more re- ssions to come.

"While tens of billions of dol- rs could be borrowed this year business for industrial proj- ts in this country — for replace- ent of plant and modernization machinery—such spending is ing held up. The two main asons for this are that long- rm interest rates are too high d the administration and Con- ess have failed to do anything out laws covering the tax-de- eciation allowances."

March 3, 1961: "Plenty of ords have been issued on how pep up the economy by spend- g more money for 'social wel- re,' but the true causes of un- nployment—the failure to pro- vide tax incentives in manufacturing industries, have been largely ignored."

April 20, 1961: "The President's message on tax reform was drafted by persons who are apparently versed in theories of taxation but know little about what really makes business grow.

"Temporary expedients may be important but long range planning is even more so. A tax plan that's temporary isn't likely to be taken as seriously as one that will cover a fixed period within which expenditures for modernization or replacement of plant or equipment are made."

June 15, 1961: "Businessmen are beginning to worry about another recession—the one expected after the current recovery has run its course. . .

"The stimulus that has been expected through a sensible program of tax incentives on depreciation allowances in connection with new plant and equipment has not materialized. Businessmen don't really know what to expect, and many of the plans that should long ago have been underway to construct new plants haven't been launched as yet. All the benefits to employment that would have been derived from the heavy-goods industries if a broader policy on depreciation had been formulated have, therefore, not been forthcoming."

Sept. 11, 1961: "The Kennedy administration has crossed the Rubicon. It has decided to make war on conservative economics and embark on a course of radical economics. It is ignoring the risk that it may plunge the country into more unemployment within the next 18 months and bring about perhaps the worst recession since the 1930s.

Limits on Profits

"For President Kennedy has determined to put certain limits on business profits and the return on investments that stockholders have hitherto expected when putting their savings into private enterprises by brandishing antitrust suits in their faces almost every day. It is interesting to note that the executives of the 12 steel companies which got the President's identical letters are virtually forbidden to discuss it with each other, since the subject is price making. The steel companies would be hauled into court for price collusion if they as much as sat down together to discuss what kind of replies they should make as an industry."

Oct. 19, 1961: "Take the matter of replacing worn-out machinery. The present tax laws are woefully inadequate. The Kennedy administration to some extent recognizes the problem, but its proposed remedy has been regarded as worse than the ailment. A group of theorists came forth with a plan of limited scope which the administration sponsored. But the basic need for all industry and business to meet the depreciation problem was sidetracked."

Oct. 26, 1961: "The truth is that the economic system of this country cannot absorb these extensive increases in wage costs and still accumulate enough profits to buy the desired amount of new plant and equipment. That's why the heavy-goods industries, which are today the sources of so much unemployment, have been hurt in recent months."

All this was written before the steel controversy broke out on April 11, 1962. It's a summarization of the thinking of businessmen who were worried and anxious, and yet the administration apparently did not sense what was happening and took no steps to correct the growing uncertainty which has finally resulted in a mass psychology of fear and apprehension. Now there's talk of an immediate tax cut, and new depreciation rules have been announced. But it may be wondered what would have happened if the administration had really tackled this whole problem in earnest sometime during the year 1961. Maybe business would have been booming by now.

Over 12,700 Lose Drivers License Since Jan. 1

Driving privileges of 12,726 persons were revoked or suspended in Wisconsin during the first half of this year, Commissioner James L. Karns of the state motor vehicle department announced today.

In the corresponding period last year there were 14,839 revocations and suspensions.

Following completion of a revocation period, the motorist affected must file proof of financial responsibility and pass a driver's test before reinstatement. At the end of a suspension period, the motorist affected automatically has his license returned to him.

Log Horse Would be Swell Addition to Your Back Yard

BY CAPPY DICK

A wooden horse can be built out of logs. Constructed in your back yard, it will be quite a novelty.

If you are lucky enough to find a log shaped like that in Figure 1, it will serve as the body and head of the horse. Smaller logs may be fitted into holes in the big log for the legs.

On the other hand, if you can't find a log of that shape you may build a horse like that in Figure 2. The body consists of one straight log about four feet long. The neck is a smaller log sawed at an angle at each end. Another piece of that same log forms the head. The head is nailed to the neck and the neck is nailed to the body.

Before the neck and head are attached to the body, four oblong holes should be chiseled into the bottom of the big log to receive pieces of two-by-four for legs.

A tail and bridle for the horse are easy to make. The tail is simply a piece of thick rope ravelled out and nailed in place with one or more staples. The bridle is made of four old leather belts fastened together. The saddle is a blanket folded up to make a comfortable pad on which the "rider" can sit.

This log horse can be a lot of fun for a young brother or sister.

Permission for Street Ceremony Nearly Defeated

The Portland Cement Association and the Appleton Chamber of Commerce almost lost their bid to commemorate 50-year-old concrete city streets that are still in service.

Ald. Allan Sonkowsky asked for a separate vote on the request. It passed 11 to 8.

"If we allow this what is to stop the blacktop people and everyone else from wanting to do the same thing to promote their businesses?" Sonkowsky asked.

The association and the chamber want to erect a monument on the city hall lawn with a plaque listing the old concrete streets.

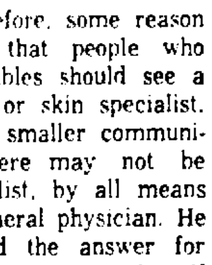

The ceremony is scheduled for Aug. 29 and will be accompanied by a parade of old cars over the old streets.

Consult Dermatologist About Cracked Nails

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What makes one's fingernails crack and split and what can be done? — G.C.

Molner

Cracked or brittle nails aren't a problem that is specific, or easy to correct, or treatable by any simple home remedy or dietary gimmick.

The nails are, indeed, part of the skin, if you want to put it another way, a part of the outer covering of the body.

I have, therefore, some reason in suggesting that people who have nail troubles should see a dermatologist, or skin specialist. For people in smaller communities where there may not be such a specialist, by all means go to your general physician. He may well find the answer for you — or he may say that if it matters that much, why don't you go to the city and see a specialist.

After all, on a day when a doctor may be harassed by an impending childbirth, a heart attack case, a hint of some measles popping out, and maybe somebody's fulminating infected toe, he may not be overly concerned about brittle fingernails.

5 Basic Causes

On the other side, anybody who has to live with such nails can get mighty sick of them, and want to correct the situation for good. So here are some hints on possible causes.

First, skin (including the nails) varies in texture, toughness, and susceptibility to disease, from one person to another.

Second, people who do hard, manual labor rarely have brittle nails. I suppose nails, like the rest of us, can "get soft" from sitting.

Third, if one has thin, fragile nails, there's not much point in wishing for thick, sturdy ones, unless you want to change your pattern of life and work.

Fourth, women are especially subject to nail troubles. There are many plausible theories: exposure to alkaline solutions such as in washing; nail polish; vitamin deficiencies, especially A, D and B; nutritional deficiencies, chiefly lack of enough protein.

Fifth, diseases, whether of skin or system, such as psoriasis, ringworm, anemia, thyroid deficiency.

What to do? Correct what's wrong. Vitamin supplement if that's what you need; more protein; correction of anemia or thyroid troubles; drugs (of which we have some very fine ones for ringworm; for psoriasis I can't suggest anything except the trial and error technique which sometimes works.

Plain gelatin taken once a day (it's mostly protein) often helps strengthen nails, and since it is inexpensive and harmless, it's well worth trying.

Afternoon Headaches

Dear Dr. Molner: Which should I see first, my family doctor, or an eye specialist? For the last seven or eight weeks I have been getting headaches in the afternoon. I wear glasses for nearsightedness, but the headaches come regardless of whether wearing them. — Mrs. A. A.

See your family doctor about the headaches. Go to your eye man if you can't see properly.

People get the idea that the eyes are the most likely cause of headache. This isn't so. For some of the numerous causes, why not read "How to Tame Headaches"? (That booklet is available to any reader in return for a stamped, self-address envelope and 20 cents in coin for printing and handling. Address requests to Dr. Molner, care of this newspaper.)

Eating Egg Shells

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been told that egg shell calcium is very good for the nerves and helps one to sleep. How should it be taken? — Mrs. C. H.

It should be taken — if you'll excuse my joke — with a grain of salt! Calcium is necessary for general health, but it doesn't help you sleep and it isn't "good for the nerves." And egg shells aren't very digestible. Get your calcium from milk, spinach and other green vegetables. Ignore the folklore about egg shells.

Removing Hair

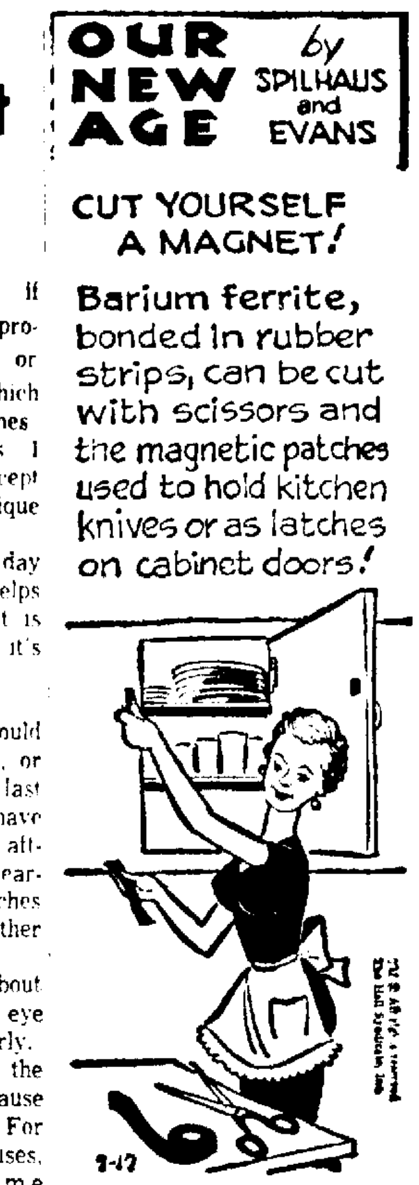

Mrs. B. R. J.: There's no danger in having facial hairs removed by electrolysis. You realize, I trust, that it takes time. But so does such a familiar thing as having a permanent. And the electrolysis is much more permanent than a "permanent."

Winnebago Gets $221 for Use of Jail

Outagamie Pays For Keeping 14 Prisoners Confined

Winnebago County received payment of $221.75 from Outagamie County today for use of Winnebago County jail facilities during the past month.

A total of 14 prisoners used Winnebago County jail facilities for 103 days and ate 258 meals. The prisoners were sent from Outagamie County jail when there was no room in the Outagamie jail to provide for the prisoners.

Included in the bill was a $3 medical charge for one prisoner taken sick during his confinement. Five prisoners used the Winnebago County jail six days, four were there 12 days and five served five days.

According to Outagamie jail officials, there are no Outagamie County prisoners confined in the Winnebago County jail at the present time.

No. 19. An Ordinance providing continuity of County Government. The succession to county offices and departments, and the preservation of Public records, recommended by the Executive Committee for adoption.

TO THE HONORABLE, THE COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF OUTAGAMIE COUNTY:

Gentlemen:

The executive committee of the County Board, having duly considered the matter, hereby recommends to the County Board of Supervisors of Outagamie County that it adopt the following ordinance:

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING CONTINUITY OF COUNTY GOVERNMENT: THE SUCCESSION TO COUNTY OFFICES AND DEPARTMENTS, AND THE PRESERVATION OF PUBLIC RECORDS.

The County Board of Supervisors of the County of Outagamie Wisconsin, do ordain as follows:

SECTION I. POLICY AND PURPOSE

(1) Enemy action could seriously affect all government operations. In some instances, existing resources of governments may be completely destroyed. It is, therefore, imperative that all governments provide for their continuity and increase their capability of operating under attack conditions. The survival of the Nation depends on the ability of Federal, State, and Local governments to carry out their responsibilities in the event of enemy action.

(2) DEFINITIONS as used in this section.

(a) "Enemy Action" means any action taken by an enemy of the United States causing, or which may cause, substantial damage or injury to persons or property in Outagamie County, Wisconsin, whether through sabotage or by use of bombs, missiles, shellfire, or atomic, radiological, chemical, bacteriological or biological means, or other weapons or methods.

(b) "Unavailable" means absent from the place of business and [illegible] or unable for physical, mental, or legal reasons, to exercise the powers and discharge the duties of his office.

(c) "Emergency Successor" means one who is designated for possible temporary succession to the powers and duties, but not the office.

SECTION II.

SUCCESSION TO OFFICERS AND DEPARTMENT HEADS

[illegible]

of the Outagamie County Board by a vote of 50 aye, 1 present, 4 absent. Ordinance adopted.

MOLLIE E. PFEFFER—County Clerk, Outagamie County

Countersigned by

ALVIN FULCER

Chairman, Outagamie County Board of Supervisors

Dated this 21st day of May, 1962.

Respectfully submitted,

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE:

Fulcer, Weyers, DeLaHunt, George F. Miller, Cunningham.

Superv. Esler moved to adopt. Roll call.

50 aye, 1 present, 4 absent, ordinance adopted.

No. 20. Revision of Section 8 of the Ordinance entitled "Civil Defense for Outagamie County" as recommended by the Executive Committee.

To The Honorable, The County Board of Supervisors of Outagamie County:

Gentlemen:

The executive committee of the County Board, having duly considered the matter, recommends the revision of Section 8 of the ordinance entitled: "Civil Defense for Outagamie County" to read as follows:

Repeal Section 8 of an ordinance entitled "Civil Defense for Outagamie County" and create to read:

Section 8. PENALTIES:

(1) It shall be unlawful for any person willfully to obstruct, hinder, or delay any member of the civil defense organization in the enforcement of an order, rule, regulation, or plan issued pursuant to the authority contained in this ordinance.

(2) It shall be unlawful for any person to represent himself as a member, or to have or maintain any card or other device used to identify him or her as a member of the Outagamie-Appleton Civil Defense, unless such person is a bona fide member, in good standing, of the appropriate service of Outagamie-Appleton Civil Defense, for which the card or device has been issued.

(3) For a violation of any of the provisions of this ordinance he shall forfeit not less than $100 or more than $500, and in default of payment thereof, shall be imprisoned in the county jail for a period not exceeding 90 days.

I, Mollie E. Pfeffer, County Clerk of Outagamie County, Wisconsin do hereby certify that Section 8 of Ordinance entitled "Civil Defense for Outagamie County" was repealed and revised as recommended and was adopted by the County Board on June 12th, 1962 meeting of the County Board of Supervisors by a vote of 50 Aye, 1 Nay, 4 Absent.

Butte des Morts Golf Club Holds Beachcomber Dinner-Dance

Dr. Ralph Kennedy escorted a mermaid, his wife, to the Butte des Morts Golf Club Beachcomber party. Mrs. Kennedy's costume was made of fish netting over a full length skirt. The skirt was gathered in the back to create a fin effect. Above, the Kennedy's are greeted by Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Kewley. Below, helping themselves at the hors d'ouevre table are Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Stephenson.

Mermaids, hula dancers and beachcombers were quick to respond to the call of the annual Beachcomber dinner-dance at Butte des Morts Golf Club.

Each guest received a flower lei. A large ice carving of a fish decorated the hors d'ouevre table. Cocktails were served on the ninth green before dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Frawley served as chairman of the party, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lindell, Kaukauna, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kampo, Mr. and Mrs. William Broadway, all of Neenah, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kewley, Mr. and Mrs. John MacDonald, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. LeVee, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Oaks, Oshkosh.

Fashions Note Use Of Leather

BY JUDY BARDEN
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

PARIS — If you want to be a fashion plate this fall, you will wear leather.

Paris is full of it. There are leather suits, jackets, coats, vests and slacks. There are leather hats with huge handbags to match and dinky little bikini type shorts in all colors.

The best of this product is antelope, which is soft as satin and which here is pleated and gathered for skirts and dresses.

Paris prices for such clothing are, as always, high, but in Spain from where I have just come, leather goods are amazingly cheap. A black antelope coat, beautifully cut, there costs $120, in Paris, $250. A beige suit jacket and flared skirt, $50 in Spain, is $120 in Paris. One of those tremendous square purses, $35 in Spain, in Paris $75.

Spanish Design Equal to Paris

And the design and cut of the goods from Spain are equal to those from Paris. In fact, some of the antelope pants with slant slit pockets and buttons placed to give a double breasted effect, were far more chic than any I saw in this city of fashion.

I can also report that the stillette heel and pointed-toed shoe is not out. It is very much in. True, many of the toes have a tiny bit clipped off and on some shoes the heel is Louis XIV period but we can remain in fashion and continue to prance along on our spikes.

Gallery of Arts Plans Pine River Sketching Trip

Appleton Gallery of Arts will hold its second sketching field trip Saturday in the Pine River area.

Plans for the trip were made at a meeting Tuesday night at the Heid Music Co. Reservations may be made with Fred Schmidt and Robert Baeten, co-chairmen of the event.

Richard I. Groh, art coordinator in the Algoma Public Schools, was guest speaker at the meeting. His program concerned sculpture of metal, wood and stone.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Flamann were named co-chairman of the Gallery's annual outdoor fair at Appleton City Park Aug. 19.

Announcement was made of the gold medal award won by Mrs. O. R. Steinert for one of her oils exhibited at the Winnebagoland Art Fair in Oshkosh recently.

Luck Helps Win Games

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

"My opponents are too lucky," Doleful Don complained the other day as we sat in the lounge of our favorite bridge club. "I give them every chance to go wrong, but they stumble into the right play by accident."

Perhaps West was lucky in leading a spade against Don's contract of four hearts. With any other lead, declarer could have developed the diamonds to discard a spade from his hand on dummy's third diamond.

"I put up dummy's queen of spades," Don told me, "but the king came up, and I had to take the ace. Now I looked at both opponents very sneakily and led the jack of hearts. You see the plot?"

I nodded without bothering to tell Don that ethical players don't try to make a contract by looking sneaky.

Avoids Trap

"West had the king of hearts halfway out of his hand," Don continued. "But at the last moment he gave me a peculiar look and played the low heart. What miserable luck."

My doleful friend will never know why West gave him that peculiar look. West was tempted to put up the king of hearts but took another look at who was playing the hand and decided that Don didn't have the nerve to lead the jack of hearts from a suit headed by ace-jack.

West decided that his partner had the ace of hearts, and he was right. What was so lucky about making a sensible decision?

Actually, East and West were lucky, but not the way Doleful Don meant it. They were lucky the hand was played by him instead of by some sensible declarer.

After winning the first spade, South should run four rounds of clubs, discarding two spades from the dummy. If an opponent ruffs the fourth club with a low trump, the ace and king of trumps will fall together. This is the right way for declarer to try to cash the ace and king of trumps on a single trick.

Daily Question

Dealer bids one heart, your partner doubles, and the next player passes. You hold: S Q 5 2 H Q 7 6 5 3 D J 10 9 C A Q. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one notrump. Your hand is good enough for this encouraging bid, but your hearts are not solid enough for a penalty pass of one heart doubled. You can afford a penalty pass only when you expect to draw trumps yourself.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

GROOM'S AUNT BAFFLED

What is the correct thing to say to the parents of the bride and groom in the receiving line? The groom's father is my brother.

Davis

Louise Davis Answers:

I advise you to avoid rehearsing any statements, but just say what comes naturally. It is generally expected that the reception guests move along without unnecessary delays so you probably won't have time to say much. As you shake hands with the bride's mother, identify yourself by giving your name and that you are the aunt of the bridegroom. You could then add something like this, "I am so happy to meet you." That should be enough unless you have a chance to say, "What a beautiful bride your Anne is. I know that she and our Robert will be so happy." When you greet the father, just say something similar and move on. Surely you can find something to say to your own brother and sister-in-law.

FLORIST MIS-INFORMED

When I was making arrangements for my daughter's wedding, the florist told me that no other color but white should be worn as corsages by the two mothers. Neither of us want white corsages. They wouldn't compliment our dresses and we feel that white is just for the bride.

Louise Davis Answers:

Your florist needs to do some double checking. It is not true that the two mothers must wear white corsages.

Wash and Wear

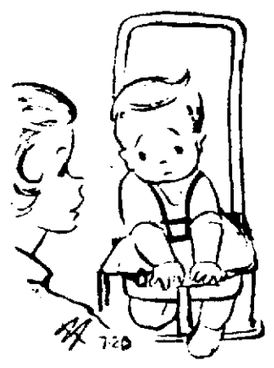

Garments made from 100 per cent man-made fibers should be washed in cold water with regular agitation and spin speed. For drying, use the wash-and-wear setting on the clothes dryer which provides the correct temperature for relaxing fibers and minimizing wrinkles. Remove garments from dryer when the chime signals. This prevents unnecessary wrinkling.

Your Problems

Philanderer's Offspring Tells Home Wreckers 'Don't Do It'

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter signed "Horse's Mouth" angered me to the point where I simply must write.

Landers

My father was a philanderer who took a mistress many long years ago. My mother asked for a divorce, but he refused to give her one. He simply moved out of the house and sent her a nice fat check every two weeks. This was supposed to take care of everything. Within three years my mother was a severe alcoholic. She suffered the tortures of the damned and died a few years later. My father married his mistress "because he felt obligated" — he told the family. Strange that he never felt any obligation to his wife, other than to pay her bills.

The whole rotten business added up to a miserable childhood for me. I'm trying to rid myself of this terrible resentment against my father, but I still wish I could send him my psychiatric bills every month.

I hope you will print this letter for the benefit of other women who may be thinking about embarking on a great love with a married man. Or perhaps this will catch the eye of some father who may be considering checking out on his wife and children. — Nightmares

Dear Nightmares: You are fighting a tough battle — and winning. I hope you will forgive your father, not for his sake, but for your own. Hatred does more harm to the vessel in which it is stored than to the object on which it is poured.

Dear Readers: The wet noodle comes out of retirement. This time it seems I've stepped on the feelings of the most fiercely loyal segment of American society — adoptive parents.

The question was: "What wording whould be used by parents who wish to send announcements letting the world know they have adopted a child? Should it read "Reginald was born — Reginald arrived — or Reginald was adopted?"

True to my personal aversion to announcements of any kind, I advised the writer to skip the whole thing and write notes or telephone close friends and members of the immediate family. Even this seemed unnecessary, since close friends and family ordinarily would know.

Hundreds of adoptive parents informed me that they have just as much right to send out announcements as natural parents. Wording was suggested. Many readers sent me samples of their announcements. One said "Our chosen child has big blue eyes and weighs 16 pounds." Another said "We welcomed into our home a darling little girl whose name is Martha."

So — I accept six lashes with a very wet noodle. Parents of adopted children, do indeed, have as much right to send out invoices — I mean announcements, as anyone else.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After two years of marriage my husband still carries in his wallet seven pictures of girls he used to date. My picture is not among them. The snapshots he had of me when we were going together went into the family album.

I don't want to say anything to him because he's the stubborn type who would carry the pictures forever just to prove he's the boss.

We are expecting our first baby in September. I want those pictures out of his wallet before the baby arrives. It makes me sick to think that our baby's picture might be sandwiched between a redhead and a platinum blonde. Please tell me what to do. — Not in the Picture

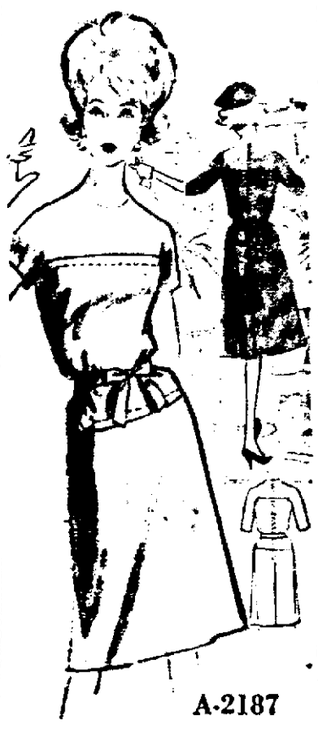

Dear Not: Do nothing. Chances are good that when the baby arrives the proud papa will unload the girlie gallery in favor of seven pictures of his first born.

Spadea's Personalized Pattern

A-2187

Four seasons out of four is the fashion average for a dress like this Suzy Perette design, with only your choice of fabric and perhaps sleeve length to decide the issue. Without a superfluous detail to its name, it glides non-stop from shoulder yoke to hip-top, taking its shape from a bow-tied belt that gathers in wonderful softness above and below the waistline. Welt seaming accents the horizontal lines that are so flattering to the tall figure. The skirt takes walking beautifully in its stride, making its move with controlled flare.

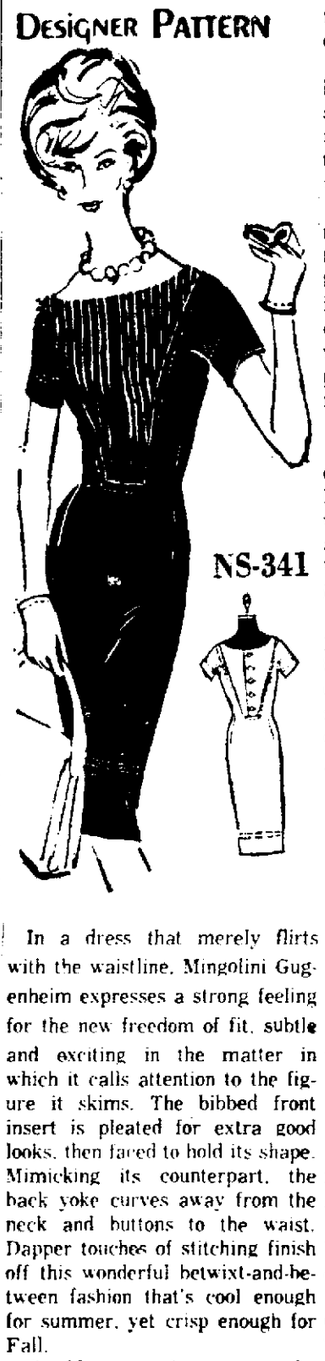

Suggested fabrics are linen, novelty cottons, shantung, light lacy tweed, sheer wool crepe or flannel, plain or printed silks or rayons. From these corresponding body measurements select the size best for you. Our sizing is comparable to that used for better ready-to-wear.

Size 12 requires 3⅛ yds. of 36" fabric for dress with short sleeves. To order Pattern No. A-2187, state size, send $1.00. Add 25 cents for first class mail and special handling. Available Pattern Books are No. 21, No. 20 and Duchess of Windsor for 50 cents each.

In a dress that merely flirts with the waistline, Mingolini Guggenheim expresses a strong feeling for the new freedom of fit, subtle and exciting in the matter in which it calls attention to the figure it skims. The bibbed front insert is pleated for extra good looks, then faced to hold its shape. Mimicking its counterpart, the back yoke curves away from the neck and buttons to the waist. Dapper touches of stitching finish off this wonderful betwixt-and-between fashion that's cool enough for summer, yet crisp enough for Fall.

Should you prefer a more defined midsection, our pattern makes that easy — simply take deeper darts and side seams! Suggested fabrics are linen, novelty cottons, shantung, silk or rayon crepe, jersey or sheer wool. From these corresponding body measurements select the size best for you. Our sizing is comparable to that used for better ready-to-wear.

Size 12 requires 3⅞ yds. of 36" fabric or 3¼ yds. of 54" fabric for dress. To order Pattern No. NS-341, state size, send $1.00. Add 25 cents for first class mail and special handling. Available Pattern Books are No. 21, No. 20 and Duchess of Windsor at 50 cents each.

Perfect Posture Needed To Show Off Fall Styles

BY PEG ZWECKER
Chicago Daily News Fashion Editor

NEW YORK — Chin up! It's perfect posture time.

The spare look, with the suit straight and the rounded - out shoulder line, scarves wrapped high almost to the ear lobes, collars turned up in a newly dashing way and coats bordered with fur and looking very Russian as worn with knee boots and fur muffs — all these call for special carriage.

The winter dress, a street dress of coating or suiting fabric with "shoulder towels" or big enveloping matching stole, is part of the top-muffled look of Ben Zuckerman's clothes as displayed in the semi-annual New York Couture Group show.

The winter dress will be an important status symbol dress for the coming season. Zuckerman likes it in camel melton or pale blue tweed.

The tailored evening look is at its best in his little - boy velvet suit with big girls' price tags. Very Carole Lombard is a costume in beige fleece dripping with matching fox and shown over a nutmeg velvet dress, plus a sable collared trench coat.

Formal Coat Matches Gown

Full length formal coats on spare lines for white tie evenings make a costume with high-waisted matched black velvet gowns.

Leo Ritter's idea for a winter ball gown is black but richer. He showed a slinky number in black mink stretching right down to the floor with huge sleeves of white mink.

And, with Christmas only five months away women who collect furs should start hinting. Ready for a rich Santa who has $100,000 is a white mink cape with giant cape collar and a new and unique-with-Ritter way of directing the pelts. It's luxury in the grand manner.

Coats Receive Attention

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy loves coats and so does Oleg Cassini. He showed reefer coats in off-white silk, black ottoman, navy alaskine and pastel brocade. White mink was the dressy touch in the evening version.

He showed his now famous rajah silhouette in a beige silk costume. Mexican-inspired were his daytime costumes (red, off-beat green or black) on which he added "charro" embroidery. His group of knits introduced a double knit fabric ribbed like ottoman. He opened his show with a soft brown waffle wool suit with side-tied jacket over a low back dress.

Laotian Inspired Gown

Newer than the sari dress is Cassini's sensational "sinh" dress, Laotian inspired and most brilliant. For example, one gown has a bright red strapless top with a gold skirt bordered with gold embroidered ribbons.

Tasteful and quietly arresting with real snob appeal is the new Hattie Carnegie ready-to-wear collection. The famous "Little Carnegie suit" of 1962 has its shoulders widened by set-in sleeves or a rounded-out shoulder line and is collared in velvet.

This house likes the look of the little wool suit in a textured brown tweed with soft gored skirt and puts a $700 price tag on it. One of the most handsome knit costumes is an ribbed putty ottoman. The dress is bias-cut for added interest.

The Ailing House

Let Experts Eliminate Black Ants

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q.: What treatment is recommended for the extinction of carpenter ants in the home? These large black ants have appeared recently, not in large numbers but rather regularly, and in different parts of the house so it is difficult to know where they might be entering. I understand this is a wood-eating insect and wondered how much damage they can do.

A: The best treatment for exterminating carpenter ants is to have a professional exterminator do the job. Carpenter ants excavate wood and the sawdust they create usually falls beneath the nest entrance; insect nests must be located and the entrance sprayed with carbon "tet" or a chlordane insecticide.

If the ants are seen emerging from cracks, pieces of wood should be removed to examine the condition underneath and the nest located. Carpenter ants do not eat wood, but excavate it to build nests, creating the sawdust which locates the nest; the principal food of these insects is other insects.

New Cabinets

Q: We recently installed new kitchen cabinets. Now we find there are not easily removable grease stains and water marks. How could these be removed? How can the cabinets be kept free from these stains in the future?

A: To remove the grease stains: Make a thick paste of powdered whiting and a nonflammable liquid spot remover, placing a thick layer over the grease stain; a sheet of thin plastic placed over the paste will retard evaporation; when the paste is dry, or discolored, replace with fresh, repeating treatment until all grease has been removed.

Using a cream clean-up wax will help prevent this type of staining.

Q: I want to install insulation in the attic of our two-story house. Is the insulating material put all the way up under the roof?

A: No; the recommended procedure is to put the insulating material between the rafters up to ceiling height; then it is run horizontally across to the opposite rafters and down to the eaves. Insulation between rafters should be so placed that there is an air space between insulation and roof.

Ventilating louvers should be installed high up in the gable ends to ventilate the air space above the ceiling area; allow one square foot of louver opening of each 300 square feet of attic floor area. If the attic is to be left unfinished, insulating the attic floor is the simplest procedure.

Pigeons in Garage

Q: One of my neighbors raises pigeons, and they land on my garage and create a dirty mess. The rain gutters get cluttered up, creating hours of work for me trying to clean it up. Is there a way to keep them from flying on my garage? Perhaps something that would keep rattling to scare them away?

A: Get some of those jointed, wooden snakes, available at toy stores and Oriental merchandise dealers, and place them on the garage roof so that the slightest breeze will start them wiggling. These seem abhorrent to pigeons and cause the birds to keep moving.

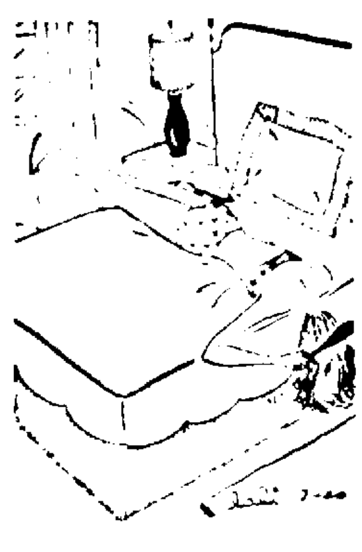

Aluminum discs, which rattle in the breeze when strung together, are effective around gardens; try here. Or spray the garden hose on them; continued hosing will cause the birds to go elsewhere. An odorless, gelatinous preparation, to be sprayed on roosting places to discourage pigeons and other birds, is available at large garden supply centers and housewares dealers; it does no harm to the birds; they just don't like to stand on it.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Here's a time-and-beauty saver, as ever was! Simply combine figure exercises with hairbrushing. This is the procedure:

1. Stretch out, face down, across your bed, with your head dangling over the side. Now begin to brush the back of your head and, with each stroke, alternately kick the legs backward, so as to touch toes to buttocks. Continue for 20 counts.

Double Duty

2. Stand erect and hold brush in your left hand; stretch your head left (try to touch shoulder), and brush the right side of your hair for 10 counts. By reversing tactics, brush left side.

3. From an erect position, slowly bend forward as far as you can, and stroke the front of your head five times. Still brushing, gradually rise. As you come erect, pull the abdomen in and the waist up. Ten repeats.

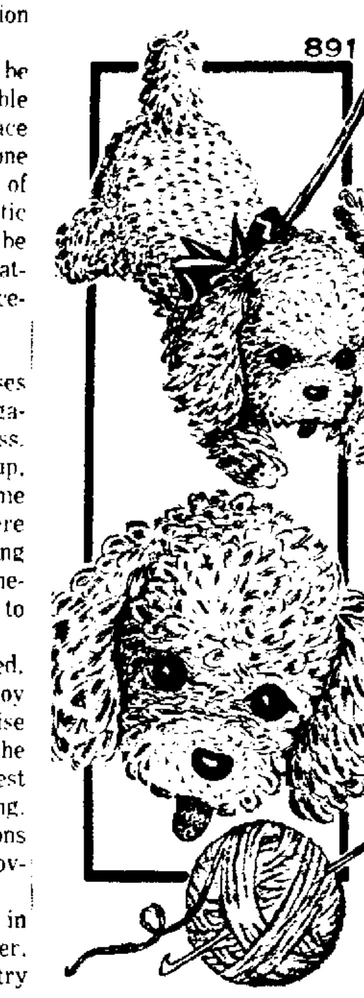

Now just what have you accomplished? Well, you've given your hair better than the 100 strokes that are needed daily to keep it in tip-top condition. As for your figure, it has had a very effective workout — one that trims and firms the thighs, hips, midriff, arms and throat.

Of course you have halved the time that it would take to perform the operations separately. If your face happens to look fresher, consider it a dividend from the routine and the increased circulation it fosters.

Really to ask for more from one workout a girl would have to be greedy — or lazy!

Boot-iful Designs Take Honors in Fall Footwear

BY PEG ZWECKER
Chicago Daily News Service

From all reports boots will run away with the fashion honors this fall.

The big news will be the dressy boot — high heeled in everything from suede to brocade to match elegant evening gowns.

Later on for foul weather there'll be a shearling lining.

The trend started about five years ago, but this year it is a genuine high fashion influence in all fashion capitals.

Boots — boots — boots, ankle styles, mid-calf and knee-high will appear as the major part of many . ostume.

Sportswear designers like the little heel or flat-footed, narrow and near-knee boot in camel and taupe suede and colors to match tweedy or leather trimmed outfits.

Knee Length Styles

Bright colors, fake fur and mock reptiles all rise to the knee.

Fashion is really taking to cover., Boots, hoods (and millinery that hides the hair) are all high style. One influences the other . . . no mention of Russian, but call it the Continental Look.

Speaking of Continental, that's the important heel shape to watch, not shaped, but straight lined. The built-up stacked heel is also important in the shoe market for next season. High heels are for after five and for formal wear only. Ever since Mrs. Kennedy wore pumps with walking heels in her TV Tour of the White House program, this style has gained importance.

Tapered Toe Appears

Toes? The fuller tapered toe, not stiletto or pointed is the important one. The clipped toe, will I right for smart street wear, but not for evening.

An interesting sideline — the closed toe and open-back look is coming in for dressy afternoon and dinner wear. In pumps, there will be unusual treatments such as open sides an' cutouts in oblong shapes, but toes will still be closed.

Black is the number one color. The brown family is running second. It includes mushroom, truffle, bruno (soft brown) and butterscotch. Grey, the Confederate grey and a soft grey at that, is newest. "Olivered" green and "Red Fox," a dark red, m- plete fall's palette.

Prints For After Five

Prints are very important for after five, di ier and formal fab s in 'acquard weaves, crepe and peau de soie are a great look for dressy afternoon and cocktail wear, instead of leather.

The over-all picture promised to be most excitir Footwear is m h smarte than it has en in a long time. The one prerequisite of shoes is that they must flatter the fo and not have a long exaggerated look.

The cut of the pattern or the detailing of the shoe will make the foot look shorter.

Disc Jockey Can Prevent Heartaches With Correspondence Writing Course

DEAR CY:

I am a disc jockey on an A M radio station that plays mostly taped music. I work seven hours a day at the station, but most of the time is spent just monitoring operations. You can readily see this leaves me with an awful lot of time on my hands. Much of it I fill by reading and a little by writing . . . anything. I would like to do something more productive that would bring in a little money. I like writing, but don't know how to capitalize on it short of doing a book or slick stories for magazines, and I am not proficient enough for that yet. Can you suggest how I can get started writing for money?

KNIGHT J.

DEAR KNIGHT:

With time on your hands, you might be shrewd to learn the principles of writing . . . before you go to market. Look into the Famous Writers' (Correspondence) School, Westport, Connecticut. This is conducted by a group of celebrated writers. You can take your choice of courses in non-fiction, fiction, advertising copy, and business writing.

I'd rather see you approach writing for cash prudently, than submit a few early manuscripts impulsively. Avoid risking long-term heartbreak for short-term gain.

DEAR CY:

We have a neighbor child we would like to help get started in life. He could be a success in business. He is about average in intelligence, but he has a bright way about him that should go a long way. This boy is an orphan, the son of a veteran of World War II. Next year is his last in high school, and we would like to help him make plans for more education, but can give only moral support. Can you advise if there are loans available for such children?

J. P. K.

DEAR J. P. K.:

There are many opportunities for obtaining financial assistance to advance education. In my opinion, the best compilation of data on this subject is "Guide to Scholarships, Fellowships, and Loans" by John Bradley, published by the New American Press, 501 Madison Avenue, New York 22, New York. This Signet paperback sells for 75c, and could be worth a fortune in the right hands. For detailed information on state sponsored educational benefits, many especially provided for children of veterans, you should get a copy of "Student Aid Bulletin," 50c, from Chronicle Guidance Publications, Moravia, New York.

DEAR CY:

I am just foolish enough to think I am worth about $20,000 a year to the right company. Right now I am taking home $650 a month in the roofing business. There is no future, although half of my ideas are usually accepted and put to use. How can I get a line on the better job openings in other parts of the country without revealing my intentions?

TOM F.

DEAR TOM F.:

"National Employment Reports "National Employment Reports" lists hundreds of executive job openings in the $7,000 to $35,000 range. It is published monthly, by a reputable firm, Clissold Publishing, at 105 W. Adams Street, Chicago. Your identity will be kept secret, in the event you subscribe.

Don't be surprised if you feel just a little uneasy the first time you put in gas with a Volkswagen Truck.

Especially if you're used to premium.

And the man says, "4 gallons fifty, sir," instead of three dollars and twenty cents.

You may be tempted to tell the man he undercharged you. (Or tempted not to tell him.)

Actually it isn't just that the Volkswagen Truck uses regular gas.

It's also that it gets 20 to 30 miles a gallon. (On average it's about 24.)

... there ... much reason for the VW Truck ... stop at gas stations at all.

Kuehn Discusses General Sales Tax

Pledges Government of Action, Not Study; to Winnebago GOP

OSHKOSH — Philip Kuehn, Republican candidate for governor, repeated his belief in a general sales tax with no increase in the income tax in meeting with Winnebago County Republican executive committee members and county business leaders Thursday noon at Alex's Town House here.

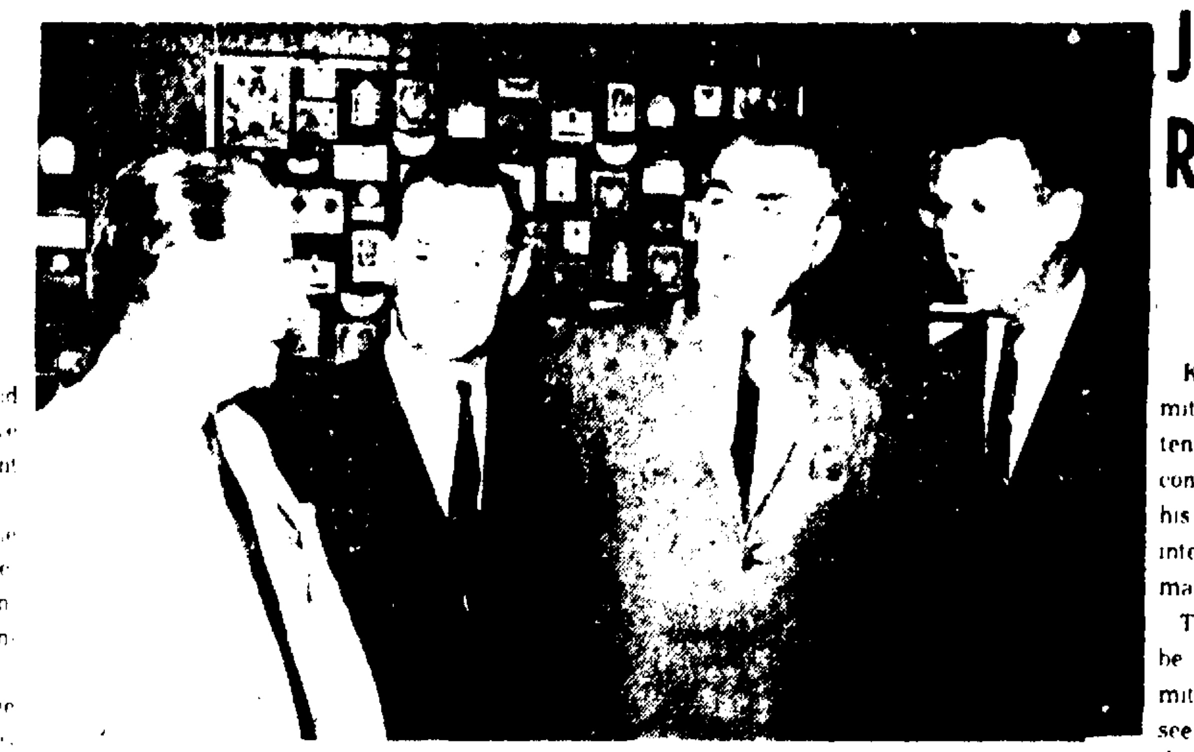

He said if elected he will work hand in glove with the legislature in providing a government of action rather than a government of study.

He also pledged economies in the state tax department and said Wisconsin residents will receive a dollar's worth of government for every tax dollar spent."

In a separate session with the party's executive committee, Kuehn stressed that the forthcoming primary is of extreme importance to Republican voters.

Kuehn is being opposed for the Republican nomination for governor in the September primary by Wilbur N. Renk of Sun Prairie.

After the luncheon meeting Kuehn and his wife were honored at a tea given by the Republican Women of Winnebago County. He then left for an evening meeting at Stevens Point.

Winnebago County Republican leaders met Thursday noon at Oshkosh with the party's endorsed candidate for the governor nomination. Phillip Kuehn, second from left, whose appearance also included a meeting with county business leaders and a reception sponsored by the Republican women's group. Left to right are Ted R. Neely, Menasha Republican Club chairman; Kuehn; Robert Wollangk, county Republican party chairman, and Thomas J. Spence, member of the Neenah Republican Club. (TCNR Staff Photo)

Civics Classes Needed, GOP Candidate Says

Lack Manifested by Many Youths in Disregard for Law

NEENAH — The absence of a civics course requirement in our high schools along with the rampant utter disregard for the laws of society as manifested by many but not all of our youth, was pointed out by James P. Smyth, Republican candidate from Sheboygan for the Sixth District Congressional nomination, Thursday at a coffee hour at the Grover Chandler residence, 659 Winneconne Ave.

He cited delinquency rates and asked, "Do our children know the basic truths of our democracy? Do they know the fundamentals of procedure in our democracy? A very large percentage do not.

"Look at the Peace Corps. Do you know we are sending youngsters abroad without any refresher training in knowledge of our government, ill-equipped to match the warped yet trained mind of the communist. A great humanitarian effort poorly implemented becomes a liability."

Smyth asked, "What can you do, ladies? You can ask yourselves 'Do we need action?' If enough of you say 'Yes' we will regenerate and inculcate the patriotism of our past. If enough of you say 'No' the rest of us had better throw in the sponge and say a great experiment failed."

The speaker also spoke against political party caucus and convention endorsement in lieu of nomination by primary election. Smyth is an unendorsed candidate while the district caucus nominated William K. VanPelt, now completing his sixth term in the House of Representatives and a candidate for reelection.

Breakins at Valley Fair Investigated

NEENAH — Three breakins at Valley Fair Shopping Center, Town of Menasha, were reported to the Winnebago County Sheriff's Department early this morning. Nothing apparently was missing at any of the three places.

The breakins, which are thought to have occurred late Thursday night or early this morning, were reported at the Pure Oil Service Station, 605 Foster St., the Bud Page used car office, located behind the service station and the W. T. Grant Store, 629 W. Foster St.

Entry was gained in all three cases by breaking plate-glass door windows. A pair of pliers and metal punch was taken from the Pure Oil Station, but this was later used to break the door window at the W. T. Grant Store.

Candy, popcorn and pop were consumed at Grants, leading county police to suspect that youths were involved.

Menasha Mishap Injures 2 Persons

MENASHA — Two persons received minor injuries Thursday afternoon in a two-car smashup on Main Street east of Tayco Street.

Drivers were John P. Datta, 22, Berlin, and Robert Herman, 36, 131 S. Oneida St., Appleton. Police said Datta's car struck the rear of Herman's, which was halted.

Datta's passenger, Miss Diane De Oca, 18, Berlin, complained of a pain in her back and Herman of a whiplash neck injury.

PSC Approves $44,738 Water Rate Increase for Menasha

MENASHA — Water rate increases of $44,738 were approved today by the Wisconsin Public Service Commission at the request of the Menasha Water and Light Commission.

Of the increased water rates, $12,960 will be borne by non-industrial consumers and $31,840 by industrial users.

The utility was allowed to increase water rates because its 1961 net earnings were $8,194. The maximum allowable under state law is $61,757, arrived at by figuring 5.5 per cent of the rate base.

Of the added income $7,700 will come from residential and commercial users, $1,538 from residences where more than one family is served by single meters, and $1,900 from increased hydrant rental charged to the city.

The industrial rate calls for an increase of 6½ or 10 cents per 1,000 gallons for all over the first 100,000 gallons used each month.

Residential users will pay more in most cases, since the minimum $1 charge per month will buy 3,000 gallons of water, compared with 4,000 gallons under the old rates. For each 1,000 gallons between 3,000 and 20,000 gallons, the charge will be 3 cents.

Minimum meter charges will range from $1 a month for the standard residential ⅝-inch meter to $50 for 6-inch and $83 for 8-inch industrial meters.

The city utility will earn an estimated $52,932 on its water sales per year with the new rates.

Justice Post Created by Law

Little Chute Job Already Occupied By Anton Jansen

LITTLE CHUTE — The village board Tuesday night adopted an ordinance creating the office of municipal justice of the peace, although Anton Jansen was appointed to that position several months ago, before the ordinance was adopted.

Jansen is to receive $100 per month salary in lieu of fees and costs. The board did not include a salary in the ordinance so that his salary may be reviewed each year.

Board members voted to revise an ordinance to establish set-back lines for buildings. The former ordinance established set-back lines of six or eight feet from side boundaries; the new ordinance limits the side boundary line to six feet.

Zoning Change

Members voted to change land located north of Main Street between Wilson Street and the St. John parish cemetery from residential to non-residential area. No central business or local shopping district was formed to permit board members to review individual building applications as they are received.

The street department foreman was authorized to hire another man to assist with summer work and to purchase two batteries and one truck tire for use on village vehicles.

Construction Ceremony Set At Winneconne

WINNECONNE — A groundbreaking ceremony, symbolic of the start of construction on additions to Winneconne Central and Winchester schools, will be held here at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

The construction project when completed including additions to the two schools, remodeling and equipment, will cost a sum not exceeding $575,000. This figure represents the amount approved for appropriation by voters of the Winneconne School District in March of this year.

On hand for the ground-breaking ceremony, to be held in front of the Winneconne Central School, will be the following school and contractural representatives: Arthur Lehman, Winneconne school superintendent; Al Piette, representing the general contractors, Fred Piette and Sons, Appleton; Richard Thern, of Losch & Thenn architectural firm, Oshkosh, and members of the Winneconne school board: Joseph Anderson, president; George Tipler, clerk; Floyd David, treasurer; and Gerard Eisch, Marguerite Wentzel, Arthur Thompson and Herman Kiesow.

Work on the project is expected to start next week, with final completion set for August, 1963.

J. J. Martens to Remodel Store

New Front With 'Look-In' Design Part of Project

KAUKAUNA — A building permit has been issued J. J. Martens Jr., 128 E. Third St., for the construction of a new front on his store and alterations to the interior of the store at an estimated total cost of $5,000.

The front of the building will be of the "look-in" design, permitting people on the street to see beyond window displays into the store. Changing of the window design will add 600 square feet of retail display space to the 50- by 90-foot store.

Store Changes

The windows and doors will have aluminum trim and aluminum paneling will be erected on the building front. This paneling will form the background for a new sign. The entrance will be widened and new fluorescent lighting will be installed throughout the store.

Other changes will include new heating convectors, new dressing rooms, larger air conditioning equipment and a check-out counter near the front entrance along self-service lines. The store will not be converted to a self-service type business, but many items will be placed on self-service for customer convenience.

Increased floor space will permit a greater variety of stock and merchandise to be handled and displayed.

Play Activity Set for Week

KAUKAUNA — A schedule of events at the playgrounds for next week has been released by James Gertz, recreation director, with free play to be held at all parks Monday. The trampoline will be located at Beaulieu Hill.

Tuesday, children will work with caged stone and pendant jewelry as a craft project and the trampoline will be at Hennes Park Wednesday and children will use old magazines in a montage faces contest. Family night will be held at the swimming pool.

Thursday activity will be a montage picture contest and the trampoline will be at Nicolet School playground. Activity on Friday will include sandcasting, working with puppets and general games. The trampoline will be at Glenview Park.

Red Arrow Best in Country, Laird Says

Reaches 'Strike' Readiness Before Any Other Guard Unit at Ft. Lewis

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Wisconsin's Red Arrow Division is "without a doubt" the top national guard division in the entire country, Marshfield declared today upon his return from reviewing the 32nd at Ft. Lewis Wednesday.

The congressman based his evaluation of the Red Arrow largely on the fact that it reached combat readiness as early as February and became a "strike" division (the highest rating possible) in the shortest time on record.

"Of the 16 Army Divisions in existence, only six have qualified for 'strike' rating, Laird explained." As a matter of fact, our 32nd reached 'strike' level even before the 4th Regular Army Division, also based at Ft. Lewis, did."

He said it was "significant" that Army secretary Cyrus K. Vance, only three weeks in office, had chosen the 32nd as his first division to "review." At that time, the secretary awarded the Legion of Merit to Commanding General Major General Herbert A. Smith, and a special citation to Brig. Gen. Francis K. Schweinler, of Madison, commander of the artillery.

First Battle Group

The congressman said that explanation by narrator Lt. Col. Herbert Krueger of the units which passed the reviewing stand occupied by Vance and himself was exceptionally instructive. During the review, Laird said Lt. Krueger introduced all battle groups, including the First Battle Group, 127th Infantry, commanded by Col. Warren Bartels. Companies within it are from Appleton, Green Bay, Marinette, Clintonville and Neenah.

"Men in this battle group played an important role in exercise "Mesa Drive," Krueger said. They were airlifted from this field to the Yakima Firing Center, giving the exercise a start that was realistic of combat conditions."

"A total of 64 sorties were flown each of the three days from May 7 to 9th to move the men and much of their equipment," he continued. "The success of the operation showed how carefully the unit had planned its airlift procedures. It further proved the Red Arrow Division could transport a mechanized, combat ready task force into battle by air."

Other units in the Fox River area included the Second Howitzer Battalion, 121st Artillery, commanded by Major John G. Sullivan with its units from Marshfield and Abbotsford.

Special Duty

"This battalion spent a month on special duty on the main fort in March and April, when they were hosts for the Sixth Army rifle matches," the narrator told. "This battalion completed Army training tests at battery and battalion level as a part of their combat readiness training. They fired live rounds from their 105 millimeter and 155 millimeter howitzers in an ample artillery impact area at this fort."

The First Medium Tank Battalion, 105th Armor, commanded by Lt. Col. James J. Dehlinger was comprised of men who represented units from Wausau, Merrill, Rhinelander, Antigo and Medford, it was described as the "essential mobil striking force for the mission", equipped with M-48 tanks, carrying the "Lethal" 90 millimeter gun.

Marathon Gives Locomotive To National Railroad Museum

GREEN BAY — Another historic steam locomotive will be donated to the National Railroad Museum at Green Bay Saturday, July 28, by the Marathon Division of American Can Co.

James E. Tippet, manager of Marathon's Northern Products plant at Green Bay, is responsible for the museum acquiring Locomotive No. 102 from the Sumter & Choctaw Railway at Bellamy, Ala.

He learned of the locomotive's retirement June 30, 1961, through another Marathon operating unit in Alabama, the Allison Lumber Co. It has taken an entire year to [illegible] the arrangements and get the locomotive to Green Bay, where it arrived in the Chicago and North Western yards this week.

Trouble Enroute

The locomotive [illegible] Bellamy, Ala. [illegible] the way to Meridian, Miss., it developed "bad order" right and left journals on the driving wheels. It could not be moved over 10 miles an hour and had to be stopped every mile or so to lubricate the journals.

The Southern Railway and the Illinois Central Railroad, which had offered to move it to Chicago, then decided that the locomotive and tender would have to be shipped via two flat cars. Two derricks were required to load it, with the Southern donating the loading cost.

Because of height restrictions on the Illinois Central between Meridian and Jackson, Miss., a complicated rerouting also was necessary.

After all these problems were [illegible] Sumter & Choctaw No. 102 [illegible] Green Bay and was [illegible] Chicago and North Western [illegible]. The formal presentation [illegible] place at the Museum Saturday, July 28.

No. 102 was built by the Baldwin Locomotive Works in Philadelphia in 1924. It is a Mikado-type, the first such to be exhibited at the museum. It weighs 65 tons and has four pairs of coupled driving wheels with a two-wheeled truck at front and rear (2-8-2 type).

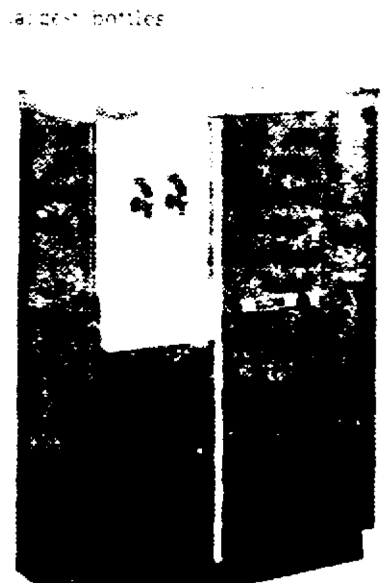

The engine saw 37 years of service. It handled lumber traffic for the Allison Lumber Co. between Lutta and Choctaw City, Ala., plus local freight traffic. It also hauled log trains on Allison lands and, in its earlier days, hauled passenger and excursion trains, the latter to bring in hunting parties.

The Sumter & Choctaw [illegible] 22 miles [illegible] [illegible]

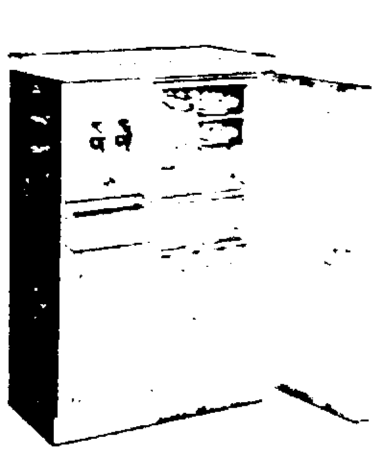

All Dressed Up and Ready to go to the National Railroad Museum at Green Bay, this steam locomotive was operated for 37 years by the Sumter & Choctaw Railway of Bellamy, Ala. Donated to the Museum by the Marathon Division of American Can Co., the locomotive was built in 1924. Service it provided for the Allison Lumber Co., a Marathon operating unit [illegible] transportation of [illegible] lumber and wood chips that are used to produce wood pulp required for papermaking.

Share Prices Edge Higher

Transactions Down To Lightest Volume Reported This Week

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market managed another small jog to the upside early this afternoon as trading slowed to the lightest rate this week.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .70 at 21[illegible] with industrials up 1.00, rails unchanged and utilities up [illegible].

Gains of key stocks ran from fractions to more than a point.

Steel rallied after an uncertain start and posted some fairly good gains.

Motors, chemicals, aircrafts, [illegible] utilities, electrical equipment and mail order retails were mostly higher.

The growth stocks once more benefitted from short covering and to some what a sign of pre-weekend caution on the part of those who have sold borrowed stock with the necessity of having to replace it — at lower prices they hope.

Record sales and earnings by General Motors were cited by brokers to have improved general sentiment.

GM was moderately active and up a fraction. Ford also was a fractional gainer while slight change was shown by the other auto stocks.

Among the steels Jones & Laughlin and Youngstown Sheet each advanced more than a point. U S Steel, Bethlehem and Republic were fractional gainers.

American Telephone and Douglas Aircraft each rose more than a point as they continued to respond to the successful test of the Nike-Zeus anti-missile in which both companies are involved.

Republic Aviation was ahead about a point following publication of news that new contracts would make unnecessary predicted layoffs of thousands of employees by the end of 1964. McDonnell Aircraft rose nearly a point.

A rumor—which proved to be unfounded — circulated through brokerage houses to the effect that President Kennedy had called an important news conference. Some brokers theorized that it might have something to do with a tax cut and credited some of the improvement in prices to this hope. The rumor was promptly denied by the White House.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.10 at 576.26.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange in quiet trading. Syntex and National Rubber Machinery advanced about a point and Kirby Petroleum a bit more than that.

Corporate and U S government bonds were mostly unchanged in slow trading.

Firemen Called Out 4 Times Wednesday

KAUKAUNA — Firemen were called four times Wednesday, three of the runs being for grass fires and the fourth when a home owner thought she smelled gas leaking from a refrigerator. No damage resulted in any call.

Firemen advised Mrs. Eugene Koppell, 1424 Hillcrest Drive, to to call a repair man when called to check her refrigerator at 12:15 p.m. A grass fire on railway property on Oviatt and Desnoyer Street was extinguished about 12:30 p.m.

At 3:10 p.m. firemen extinguished a grass fire near Badger Northland property on U. S. 41 and at 3:20 p.m. extinguished a grass fire on railway property near Draper Street.

Circus to Come To Appleton

Legion Post to Sponsor One-Day Show at Grounds

The A. G. Kelly and Miller Bros. Circus is coming to Appleton for a one day stand Tuesday, sponsored by the American Legion Post 38. The circus will be set up at the Legion grounds on W. College Avenue.

The circus, which claims to be the largest in the country, will feature over 200 performers from more than 26 foreign countries and a large variety of wild and trained animals in five ring performances at 3 and 8 p.m.

Among the acts offered will be the Flying Esquedas, a high trapeze act, the Peabody Troupe, jugglers, the Riding Loyals, bareback riders, and Empress Leota, wild animal trainer.

The largest traveling menagerie includes rhinoceros, giraffes, a hippopotamus and rare birds.

Both the annex, which houses the menagerie, and the free attractions of the midway will be open one hour before each performance.

Post Commander Robert Lathrop is in charge of arrangements.

Local Grocers Had an opportunity to review laws and regulations under which they operate when they met with state representatives and officials of other governing organizations Thursday. D.A. Calls Meeting

Rules on Lotteries, Pricing, Trading Stamps Explained to Area Grocers

Fox Cities area grocers were given first hand information Thursday on possible lotteries, trading stamps and pricing practices which affect their business.

The meeting was called by Dist. Atty. Nick Schaefer and was attended by several representatives of the state department of agriculture which administers laws relating to operation of wholesale and retail grocery businesses.

Much of the discussion centered around a radio promotion by a potato chip manufacturer which involves prizes for persons who are able to identify ingredients in a recipe carried on the back of the chip package.

Gene Steinhorst, advertising manager for WAPL, which carries the promotion in the Fox Cities, said today the promotion has been challenged several times, but the attorney general has not attempted to stop the promotion.

Three Elements

A lottery, under Wisconsin law, must contain three elements, Lester Doran, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Independent Retail Grocers Association told the grocers. They are prize, consideration and chance. All three elements must be present or the promotion is not a lottery.

In the potato chip issue, as is often the case, the elements of prize and chance are clear. The prize is offered. Chance is involved because participants must be called on the telephone and they have no control over which telephones will be called.

Consideration often is a matter of judgment and a decision is required from proper authorities. Steinhorst explained today that in the potato chip promotion, the game participant is asked what several elements are in a recipe printed on the package. The information can be obtained in many ways, he said, including knowing something about cooking or being told by a neighbor. It is not necessary to buy the chips or even to enter a store to look at the package, he said.

Earlier Tests

In previous tests it has been held that consideration was not involved and therefore the promotion is not a lottery, Steinhorst said. The promotion is being used on at least 10 Wisconsin radio stations, Steinhorst explained.

Schaefer said today his office would act if complaints about lotteries operating in the Fox Cities area are received but he plans no investigation or study of promotions which may or may not violate the law. Schaefer said Ray Pytel, an investigator for the agriculture department who attended Thursday's meeting, may conduct some investigations, but it is up to him to proceed.

Anthony Madler, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Food and Tobacco Institute, warned grocers of the importance of complying with the law requiring minimum markups on merchandise or face the possibility of government intervention in pricing through a consumer council established in the state attorney general's office.

Minimum Markup

Merchants are required to place a minimum price increase of 6 per cent on retail goods or 8 per cent on wholesale goods. Madler said the requirement is not a price fixing method, but prevents "cut throat" competition which could drive the small independent merchant out of business.

Pytel also clarified rules about use of trading stamps in Wisconsin. He said they represent a merchandise discount and the value of the stamps cannot lower the price below the legal minimum price markup.

It is illegal to give premiums for trading stamps in grocery stores, Pytel explained, and the cash value of the stamps cannot be exchanged for premiums in the store. Trading stamps can be redeemed only in cash.

Appleton to Greet 32nd With Parade

Appleton will welcome home its unit of the 32nd Division of the National Guard with a parade and picnic for guard members and their families Aug. 9.

According to City Clerk Elden J. Broehm, secretary of the city's "welcome home" committee, a parade from W. State Street east on College Avenue to the National Guard Armory will start at 5 p.m.

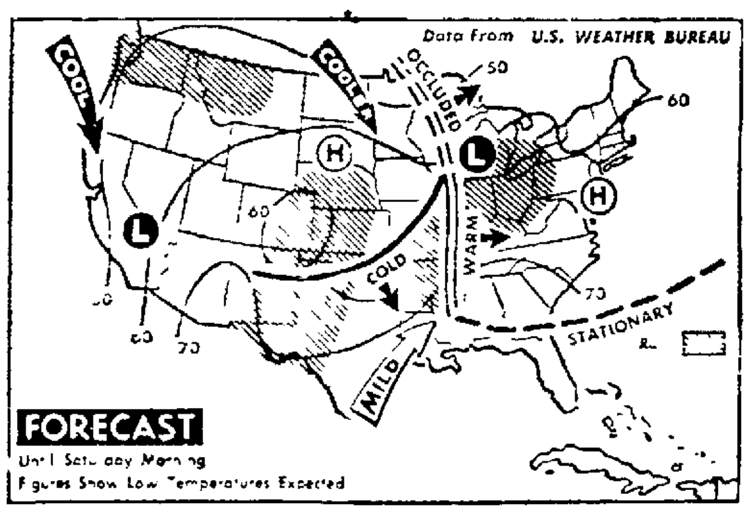

At the armory, the parade will disband and a picnic for guardsmen and their families will be held afterwards in Telulah Park. Entertainment for adults and children will be provided by the city recreation department.

The city band and the city float carrying Miss Appleton and her court will be requested to appear in the Aug. 9 parade.

The committee tentatively set July 30 as their next meeting to make further arrangements for the celebration.

Re-Elect State Regents Chief

Board Discusses Extension Center Conflict at Meeting

MADISON (AP) — [illegible] of Madison was re-elected president of the State College Board of Regents Thursday at the board's annual business meeting.

All other officers were re-elected.

Director of State Colleges Eugene R. McPhee's annual salary was increased $1,000 to $21,000.

The board discussed the apparent conflict between the State College and University of Wisconsin regents over policy on establishment of extension centers.

The UW board has approved establishment of a center in Marshfield and said it favors in principle a new center for Wisconsin Rapids. Both centers would be in the area of Stevens Point State College.

Master Plan

The college regent board has asked that any action on new centers be delayed until the coordinating committee for higher education outlines a master plan for higher education in Wisconsin.

William McIntyre, college regent from Eau Claire, said if the coordinating committee made up of members from each board split on board lines on the question it would well be the death knell of the committee."

High Speed Chase Ends In Arrest

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — A Kaukauna hot rodder who led a Brown County traffic officer on a 104 mile an hour chase from Wrightstown to Kaukauna early Thursday morning was fined $100 and costs or 30 days in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Thursday.

Clayton F. Frank, 20, of 720 High St., Kaukauna, pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving. Frank, who is a member of the Cam Busters Car Club in Kaukauna, was arrested at his home after the chase.

Officer Royce Coppens testified he picked up Frank's 1957 model car on State 96 in Wrightstown when it speeded by without tail lights about 1:40 a.m. He said he traveled from 90 to 104 miles an hour to keep up with Frank.

Frank boasted to the officer that his customized car has two four barrel carburetors, a 4 speed forward transmission and a dual exhaust system.

The young man told Coppens and Kaukauna officers that he had been to visit his girl friend near Wrightstown. He was jailed in Green Bay overnight.

Frank's driver's license will be revoked on points by the state motor vehicle department, it is expected. Previous traffic convictions for Frank are two counts of speeding and two muffler arrests.

Skid Testers Won't Return To Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The National Safety Council skid testers will not return to Clintonville's Pine Lake this winter.

The committee on winter driving hazards of the council decided July 10 it will move its operations to Gaylord, Mich.

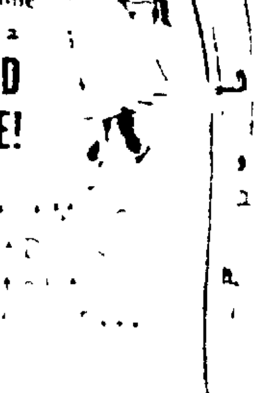

Officials said two motor firms told the safety council they refused to allow equipment to be used or men on the ice in spots where there is water under the ice.

Prompting the decision not to return to Clintonville was the death last winter of one of the skid testers. A truck he was in broke through the ice and sank, trapping him in the vehicle's cab.

Lack of Space Posing Problem in Courthouse

Committee Wants to Move DHIA Into Old Laundry Rooms at County Hospital

Cape Canaveral has had its space problems, but they are nothing compared to the space problem in the Outagamie County courthouse, a county committee studying the situation is finding.

Faced with the responsibility of finding more room within the walls of the county courthouse for the county's growing offices and agencies, the public property and insurance committee ran into a stone wall Wednesday when the Dairy Herd Improvement Association refused to budge.

The committee had anticipated moving the dairy testing laboratory into the old laundry at the county hospital and to use the laboratory's space for the county surveyor.

Office Needed

If the county surveyor is moved into separate quarters, his office can be taken over by the welfare department, which needs room for one more case worker to be hired this fall.

Bert Weyenberg, vice president of the DHIA, told the public property committee in a joint meeting with the agriculture committee that the association has no intention of moving from its present quarters. Weyenberg said it would cost almost $5,000 to make such a move and the change would affect the association's communication with other agriculture agencies within the courthouse.

Weyenberg suggested the committee consider moving the Civil Defense storeroom from the courthouse annex and outfitting storeroom space for office space.

A large basement storeroom in the courthouse annex has been used by the Civil Defense agency for storing equipment and is slated to be turned into a control center at some future date.

Meanwhile, the public property committee was asked to consider more space for the expanding records in the county courts office. Clerk of Courts Sydney M. Shannon told the committee Wednesday the storage room adjacent to the clerk of courts office has reached a "saturation point" and more space must be found.

The committee toured several areas in both the courthouse and the annex in an effort to locate space, but made no decision. The committee promised to consider all requests at a meeting Aug. 8, and would make recommendations to the county board in August.

Reserve Unit To Start Duty

Appleton Company Leaves Sunday for Two Weeks Training

Five days in the field soon after arrival at Camp McCoy face the 77 men and five officers of Appleton Company C, 291st Engineer Battalion.

Members of the unit will leave for their annual two weeks active duty for training at 5 a.m. Sunday. The unit will return Aug. 5.

A motor convoy will arrive at McCoy about 11 a.m. Sunday. Monday will be spent in familiarization of camp and the two weeks' activities. Tuesday troops will move into the field for combat field problems and slummer project work.

Trestle Bridge

The company has been assigned to build a timber-trestle bridge on a camp road site. The bridge is constructed entirely from logs. Other activities will include firing of the 3.5 inch rocket launcher and .50 caliber machine gun.

Troops will leave the field at 3 a.m. Aug. 4, return to camp for care and cleaning of equipment, stand inspection and march in a formal review at 11 a.m. After the review troops will be free on weekend passes.

Second week activities include project work, construction of pontoon foot bridges, float bridges and other engineering tactics.

Lt. John Gillespie, Appleton, is in charge of project work. Capt. Clifford P. Fischer, Oshkosh, is company commander.

Sorenson Bids For Third State Golf Crown

Meets 6-Time Champ Paula Clauder After Beating Rita Houston

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Carol Sorenson who became the state's youngest golf queen at the age of 16 bids today for her third title in four years against Mrs. Paula Clauder a six time champion

Their championship match in the 30th Wisconsin Women's Golf Tournament was set for 36 holes over the par 37 37 — 74 layout at Tripoli Country Club

The 19 year-old Miss Sorenson of Janesville and Mrs Clauder of Milwaukee met in the title round for the first time in 1959 with Carol posting an upset victory to take her first crown Miss Sorenson successfully defended her title in 1960 but was ousted in the semifinals last year

Mrs Clauder is making her first appearance in the tournament in two years

Miss Sorenson recent winner of the intercollegiate and women's Western titles went three under par and matched men's par of 35 36—71 in eliminating Mrs Kenneth Houston of Green Bay 5 and 4 in their semifinal match Thursday Miss Sorenson's 71 also equalled the all time tournament record she set last year at Sheboygan before she was eliminated

Miss Sorenson had a 3 up lead after nine holes and won the 10th and 11th holes then added three pars in posting the victory She and Mrs Houston then played out the match

Mrs Clauder took a 3 2 victory over Louise Gammell of Milwaukee who gained the semifinals with an upset victory over defending champion Mrs Marilyn Williams of Milwaukee on Wednesday Mrs Clauder and Miss Gammell were even after 10 holes but Mrs Clauder closed out the match by winning the 11th 14th and 16 holes

Price Paces 4-0 Victory Over Decatur

BY MARK OLIVA
Post Crescent Staff Writer

Combining a big 4 run second inning with Ed Watt's 3-hit shutout pitching the Fox Cities swept their third straight game from Decatur 4 0 at Goodland Field Thursday night

With the win, the Foxes moved into a tie for third place in the Midwest League Tonight, the Foxes open a 3-game series with second-place Waterloo.

The Foxes earned their four markers last night when second baseman John E Price hit a 3-run double scoring Bill Shirah John Scruggs and Dan Markowski A single by Ed Watt and an error by Decatur second baseman Hector Torres led Price across the plate

Jack McKeon Helps Hurler Via Radio

VANCOUVER B C (AP)—The magic world of electronic gadgets has invaded Pacific Coast League baseball

And it's paying off big for the Vancouver Mounties who edged Tacoma 1-0 Thursday night

How did they do it? They're using radio—transistor type

Here's how it works Mountie Manager Jack McKeon sits in the dugout with a transmitter Whenever he wants to drop a bit of advice to his pitcher, McKeon just presses a button and tells him The information is picked up by a tiny receiver—the size of a cigaret pack—hidden in the hurler's shirt pocket

Thursday Gerry Arrigo was able to strike out 14 batters taking McKeon's signals rather than his catcher's

Nifty? Well so far it's helped the Mounties to win both games since its introduction Wednesday night

And PCL President Dewey Soriano says it's all legal

Milwaukee Sends Burdette, Hendley Against Phillies

Giants Defeat Braves, 7-3 In Finale of 3-Game Series

MILWAUKEE (AP)— The Milwaukee Braves played a familiar tune at County Stadium Thursday They were helpless in the clutch

The Braves jumped off to a lead and then folded once again in bowing 7 3 to the San Francisco Giants before a crowd of 20 570 including 6 412 Ladies Day and Knothole Gang fans

The Milwaukee sluggers' flashed their power briefly in the second when Hank Aaron led off with his 24th homer a high shot into the left field stands and Lee Maye connected for his fourth homer into the bleachers in right

After Willie Mays lined his 26th homer in the San Francisco fourth, the Braves bounced back for a run in their half on singles by Frank Bolling and Maye and a hard drive by Joe Torre off southpaw hurler Mike McCormick For re was thrown out as the run scored and McCormick had to retire from the game

The Braves who left two runners on base in the third, were stymied the rest of the way by Don Larsen, who finished the fourth before exiting for a pinch hitter and Bob Bolin They left two runners stranded in both the fifth and sixth

Driven Out

The Giants tied the count in the 3 3 in the fifth as Milwaukee rookie Denny Lemaster was driven out Lemaster hurled hitless ball until Mays' homer and then lost his stuff in the fifth A single, a walk, a hit batsman and a single by Jose Pagan brought Carl Willey from the bull-

The Giants edged in front in the seventh on a double by Ernie Bowman a wild pitch and neat sacrifice bunt by Pagan who executed the suicide squeeze despite two strikes on him San Francisco then added two runs in the eighth and one in the ninth

Bolin who allowed only two hits in five innings of relief earned the victory his fifth with

Dowler Shows Great Speed In Workout

Ron Kramer Has Painful Left Elbow

BY LEE REMMEL
Post Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Lanky Boyd Dowler a recent GI lost none of his speed in Uncle Sam's army

Dowler one of the National Football League's more accomplished flankers the last three autumns wheeled past a straining rookie defensive back (who shall mercifully remain anonymous) late in Thursday afternoon's Packer passing drill and under a 50 yard bomb from quarterback John Roach

With a 1 stride lead Dowler would have 'gone' under game conditions Needless to say, this drew smiles from Vince Lombardi and his ades who are expecting the 6-5 Wyoming native to repeat this performance against the real enemy on more than a few occasions

Discharged from Fort Lewis, Wash only last week the erstwhile University of Colorado greyhound was down to 218 pounds, two under his 1961 playing weight in the wake of Thursday's demanding double drills — after checking in at 226 just 48 hours earlier

Yesterday's show of speed was not just a happy coincidence Dowler, a college quarterback who has blossomed into one of the NFL's most feared receivers, has never stopped running

After helping his artillery team win the post basketball championship last winter, the lanky speedster transferred to track, where he whiled away his spring leisure skimming the high and low hurdles and running the 100-yard dash

These endeavors also served to prove that Dowler has lost none of his awesome speed 'I ran the high hurdles in 14 6 and the hundred in 10 flat or a shade under" Boyd was happy to report

Like his colleagues Boyd's primary goal is 'to win the championship again

What about a personal objective? "I just want to improve every year" Dowler said "As far as winning the pass receiving championship I don't even think about it A lot of intangibles go into having a good year as a receiver And remember we're primarily a running team"

Ferrel Gains NEW Semi-Finals With Aid of Dramatic Ace

Post Crescent News Service

SHEBOYGAN — Bob Ferrel of Appleton Butte des Morts advanced to the semi finals of the Northeastern Golf Association amateur tournament at Pine Hills Thursday with the aid of a show stopping hole in 1

Ferrel

To defeat Stevens Point's John Toepel in the quarter finals Ferrel had to stage one of the most dramatic finishes the tournament has ever seen an ace on the 18th hole Three down with six holes to go Ferrel rallied against his 18 year foe but was still one down teeing off on the 156 yard 18th hole His opponent driving first put his ball within two feet of the stick for a sure bird and the match

Does 'Impossible'

The only way for Ferrel to 'stay alive" was to do the impossible sink an ace—and he punched a 6-iron into the cup to do so as onlookers gasped Then he went out and won the match in three extra holes

Ferrel a Notre Dame varsity gofler, had turned back Ridgeway's Chet Bland, 1960 champion 3 and 2 in his first match Thursday

Ridgeway's Ray Doell and New London's Peter Culver were the only other Fox Cities area survivors in championship play in addition to Ferrel Doell and Culver play in the senior and junior divisions repsectively

Ferrel met Tom Nelson of Green Bay Oneida in the semi-finals of the championship flight this morning Then if victorious he was to face either Hans Fischer of Sheboygan Riverdale or Jimmy Lohr of Pine Hills in the afternoon's 18-hole championship finals

Culver was in the finals of the junior handicap event meeting John Chemak of Manitowoc Branch River He won that spot with a 3 and 2 victory over Steve Madson of Oneida who had beaten Dick Testwuide of Pine Hills 8-6

Doell defeated Ed Larson Pine Hills 2 and 1 to gain the finals

Pirates Down Mets Twice, Trail Dodgers By Only 2½ Games

Cincinnati Hands LA 4-3 Defeat; Cards Edge Cubs

BY JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's beginning to look like 1960 all over again for the aroused Pittsburgh Pirates

By winning 22 of their last 27 games the Pirates have pulled within 2½ games of the National League leading Los Angeles Dodgers

Danny Murtaugh is using the same old reliable formula that worked two years ago Scramble Never quit Wait for the late inning home run Then call for little El Roy Face

Dick Stuart hit the home run and two singles, too, in the Pirates' 5-1 first game victory Thursday night over the New York Mets Bob Skinner contributed the game winning homer in the 10th inning of the Pirates' 7-6 second game victory Bill Mazeroski the hero of '60, hit a homer in each game

The double victory enabled the Pirates to gain ground on both the Dodgers and the second place Giants When the Dodgers lost to Cincinnati 4 3 their lead shrunk to one game over San Francisco a 7 3 winner over Milwaukee

Cards Shade Cubs

St Louis also picked up a game on the Dodgers but still trail by 8½ in fourth place after shading Chicago 5-4 Philadelphia continued its mastery over the stumbling Houston Colts beating them for the 12th straight time, 6-2

The Pirates who have beaten the Mets 10 out of 11 had trouble in the second game The first was a breeze for Bob Friend who threw a five-hitter But the second was a different story despite a four run Pirate spurt against loser Jay Hook in the second inning

Pittsburgh came from behind twice to tie it up before Skinner settled matters with his home run into the left field stands leading off the 10th Face who took over in the ninth, won his seventh

The Dodgers took a 3 2 lead into the ninth but reliever Ron Perranoski couldn't hold it Manager Walter Alston called for Perranoski after starter Johnny Podres walked the leadoff man in the ninth Don Blasingame's sacrifice and a single by Don Zimmer tied the score Eddie Kasko's triple with two out won it for Bill Henry

Tie-Breaking Run

Three passed balls by catcher Dick Bertell in the same inning gave the Cards their tie breaking run in the seventh against the Cubs Fred Whitfield struck out but reached base safely on the first passed ball as Bertell was having his trouble handling Barney Schultz' knuckler Whitfield, attempting to steal went all the way to third on the second passed ball and scored on the third

He's leading the 44th Professional Golfers Association championship by two shots after a first round 66 and nobody is giving him a tumble But as far as the public is concerned its still a duel between Arnie Palmer and Jack Nicklaus

The public may be right After an opening round that produced six sub par rounds and five at even par over the leg straining hills of the 7 045 yard par 70 Aronimink Course it still was anybody's tournament

And not the least among a dozen and a half players within close range of first place were Palmer winner of the Masters and British Open and Nicklaus the U S Open champion

First Day Record

Hampered by a crowd that was estimated at 17 000—a record first day gallery for the PGA championship— and bothered by amateur camera fans who shot at the wrong times Palmer and Nicklaus both shot 1-over par 71s on their first round

That wasn't bad scoring by any reckoning There were 11 players who did better all of them good sound golfers who might stay in there and win But the law of averages says that most of them will blow a shot or two between today's second round and Sunday's final Palmer and Nicklaus are the kind of players who seldom blow one

In second place with a 68 was another gray haired gaffer from Michigan Chick Harbert who won the PGA title in match play in 1954 and who has played in only two tournaments so far this year

At 69 were George Bayer the big belter from Miami and three players whose tee shots aren't

Lack of Space Posing Problem in Courthouse

Committee Wants to Move DHIA Into Old Laundry Rooms at County Hospital

Cape Canaveral has had its space problems, but they are nothing compared to the space problem in the Outagamie County courthouse, a county committee studying the situation is finding.

Faced with the responsibility of finding more room within the walls of the county courthouse for the county's growing offices and agencies, the public property and insurance committee ran into a stone wall Wednesday when the Dairy Herd Improvement Association refused to budge.

The committee had anticipated moving the dairy testing laboratory into the old laundry at the county hospital and to use the laboratory's space for the county surveyor.

Office Needed

If the county surveyor is moved into separate quarters, his office can be taken over by the welfare department, which needs room for one more case worker to be hired this fall.

Bert Weyenberg, vice president of the DHIA, told the public property committee in a joint meeting with the agriculture committee that the association has no intention of moving from its present quarters. Weyenberg said it would cost almost $5,000 to make such a move and the change would affect the association's communication with other agriculture agencies within the courthouse.

Weyenberg suggested the committee consider moving the Civil Defense storeroom from the courthouse annex and outfitting storeroom space for office space.

A large basement storeroom in the courthouse annex has been used by the Civil Defense agency for storing equipment and is slated to be turned into a control center at some future date.

Meanwhile, the public property committee was asked to consider more space for the expanding records in the county courts office. Clerk of Courts Sydney M. Shannon told the committee Wednesday the storage room adjacent to the clerk of courts office has reached a "saturation point" and more space must be found.

The committee toured several areas in both the courthouse and the annex in an effort to locate space, but made no decision. The committee promised to consider all requests at a meeting Aug. 8, and would make recommendations to the county board in August.

Reserve Unit To Start Duty

Appleton Company Leaves Sunday for Two Weeks Training

Five days in the field soon after arrival at Camp McCoy face the 77 men and five officers of Appleton Company C, 291st Engineer Battalion.

Members of the unit will leave for their annual two weeks active duty for training at 5 a.m. Sunday. The unit will return Aug. 5.

A motor convoy will arrive at McCoy about 11 a.m. Sunday. Monday will be spent in familiarization of camp and the two weeks' activities. Tuesday troops will move into the field for combat field problems and slummer project work.

Trestle Bridge

The company has been assigned to build a timber-trestle bridge on a camp road site. The bridge is constructed entirely from logs. Other activities will include firing of the 3.5 inch rocket launcher and .50 caliber machine gun.

Troops will leave the field at 3 a.m. Aug. 4, return to camp for care and cleaning of equipment, stand inspection and march in a formal review at 11 a.m. After the review troops will be free on weekend passes.

Second week activities include project work, construction of pontoon foot bridges, float bridges and other engineering tactics.

Lt. John Gillespie, Appleton, is in charge of project work. Capt. Clifford P. Fischer, Oshkosh, is company commander.

Foxes' Watt Hurls His Third Shutout

Price Paces 4-0 Victory Over Decatur

BY MARK OLIVA
Post Crescent Staff Writer

Combining a big 4 run second inning with Ed Watt's 3-hit shutout pitching the Fox Cities swept their third straight game from Decatur 4-0 at Goodland Field Thursday night

With the win, the Foxes moved into a tie for third place in the Midwest League. Tonight, the Foxes open a 3-game series with second-place Waterloo.

The Foxes earned their four markers last night when second baseman John E Price hit a 3-run double scoring Bill Shirah John Scruggs and Dan Markowski A single by Ed Watt and an error by Decatur second baseman Hector Torres led Price across the plate

Meets 6-Time Champ Paula Clauder After Beating Rita Houston

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Carol Sorenson who became the state's youngest golf queen at the age of 16 bids today for her third title in four years against Mrs Paula Clauder a six time champion

Their championship match, in the 50th Wisconsin Women's Golf Tournament was set for 36 holes over the par 37 37 — 74 layout at Tripoli Country Club

The 19 year-old Miss Sorenson of Janesville and Mrs Clauder of Milwaukee met in the title round for the first time in 1959 with Carol posting an upset victory to take her first crown Miss Sorenson successfully defended her title in 1960 but was ousted in the semifinals last year

Mrs Clauder is making her first appearance in the tournament in two years

Miss Sorenson recent winner of the intercollegiate and women's Western titles went three under par and matched men's par of 35 36—71 in eliminating Mrs Kenneth Houston of Green Bay 5 and 4 in their semifinal match Thursday Miss Sorenson's 71 also equalled the all time tournament record she set last year at Sheboygan before she was eliminated

Miss Sorenson had a 3 up lead after nine holes and won the 10th and 11th holes, then added three pars in posting the victory She and Mrs Houston then played out the match

Mrs Clauder took a 3 2 victory over Louise Gammell of Milwaukee who gained the semifinals with an upset victory over defending champion Mrs Marilyn Williams of Milwaukee on Wednesday Mrs Clauder and Miss Gammell were even after 10 holes, but Mrs Clauder closed out the match by winning the 11th 14th and 16 holes

Post Crescent News Service

SHEBOYGAN — Bob Ferrel of Appleton Butte des Morts advanced to the semi finals of the Northeastern Golf Association amateur tournament at Pine Hills Thursday with the aid of a show stopping hole in 1

Ferrel

To defeat Stevens Point's John Toepel in the quarter-finals, Ferrel had to stage one of the most dramatic finishes the tournament has ever seen an ace on the 18th hole Three down with six holes to go, Ferrel rallied against his 18 year foe but was still one down teeing off on the 156 yard 18th hole His opponent driving first put his ball within two feet of the stick for a sure bird and the match

Does 'Impossible'

The only way for Ferrel to "stay alive" was to do the impossible, sink an ace—and he punched a 6-iron into the cup to do so as onlookers gasped Then he went out and won the match in three extra holes

Ferrel a Notre Dame varsity gofler had turned back Ridgeway's Chet Bland 1960 champion 3 and 2 in his first match Thursday

Ridgeway's Ray Doell and New London's Peter Culver were the only other Fox Cities area survivors in championship play in addition to Ferrel Doell and Culver play in the senior and junior divisions repsectively

Ferrel met Tom Nelson of Green Bay Oneida in the semifinals of the championship flight this morning Then if victorious he was to face either Hans Fischer of Sheboygan Riverdale or Jimmy Lohr of Pine Hills in the afternoon's 18-hole championship finals

Culver was in the finals of the junior handicap event meeting John Chemak of Manitowoc Branch River He won that spot with a 3 and 2 victory over Steve Madson of Oneida who had beaten Dick Testwuide of Pine Hills. 8 6

Doell defeated Ed Larson Pine Hills 2 and 1, to gain the finals

Pirates Down Mets Twice, Trail Dodgers By Only 2½ Games

Cincinnati Hands LA 4-3 Defeat; Cards Edge Cubs

BY JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's beginning to look like 1960 all over again for the aroused Pittsburgh Pirates

By winning 22 of their last 27 games, the Pirates have pulled within 2½ games of the National League leading Los Angeles Dodgers

Danny Murtaugh is using the same old rehable formula that worked two years ago Scramble Never quit Wait for the late inning home run Then call for little El Roy Face

Dick Stuart hit the home run and two singles, too, in the Pirates' 5-1 first game victory Thursday night over the New York Mets Bob Skinner contributed the game winning homer in the 10th inning of the Pirates' 7-6 second game victory Bill Mazeroski, the hero of '60, hit a homer in each game

The double victory enabled the Pirates to gain ground on both the Dodgers and the second place Giants When the Dodgers lost to Cincinnati 4 3, their lead shrunk to one game over San Francisco, a 7 3 winner over Milwaukee

Cards Shade Cubs

St Louis also picked up a game on the Dodgers but still trail by 8½ in fourth place after shading Chicago 5-4 Philadelphia continued its mastery over the stumbling Houston Colts beating them for the 12th straight time. 6-2

The Pirates who have beaten the Mets 10 out of 11 had trouble in the second game The first was a breeze for Bob Friend, who threw a five-hitter But the second was a different story despite a four run Pirate spurt against loser Jay Hook in the second inning

Pittsburgh came from behind twice to tie it up before Skinner settled matters with his home run into the left field stands leading off the 10th Face who took over in the ninth, won his seventh

The Dodgers took a 3-2 lead in to the ninth, but reliever Ron Perranoski couldn't hold it Manager Walter Alston called for Perranoski after starter Johnny Podres walked the leadoff man in the ninth Don Blasingame's sacrifice and a single by Don Zimmer tied the score Eddie Kasko's triple with two out won it for Bill Henry

Tie-Breaking Run

Three passed balls by catcher Dick Bertell in the same inning gave the Cards their tie breaking run in the seventh against the Cubs Fred Whitfield struck out but reached base safely on the first passed ball as Bertell was having his trouble handling Barney Schultz' knuckler. Whitfield, attempting to steal, went all the way to third on the second passed ball and scored on the third

Ray Sadecki won in relief over

Ron Kramer Has Painful Left Elbow

BY LEE REMMEL
Post Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Lanky Boyd Dowler a recent GI, lost none of his speed in Uncle Sam's army

Dowler one of the National Football League's more accomplished flankers the last three autumns wheeled past a straining rookie defensive back (who shall mercifully remain anonymous) late in Thursday afternoon's Packer passing drill and under a 50-yard bomb from quarterback John Roach

With a 1 stride lead, Dowler would have "gone" under game conditions Needless to say this drew smiles from Vince Lombardi and his ades who are expecting the 6-5 Wyoming native to repeat this performance against the real enemy on more than a few occasions

Discharged from Fort Lewis, Wash only last week the erstwhile University of Colorado greyhound was down to 218 pounds, two under his 1961 playing weight in the wake of Thursday's demanding double drills — after checking in at 226 just 48 hours earlier

Yesterday's show of speed was not just a happy coincidence Dowler, a college quarterback who has blossomed into one of the NFL's most feared receivers, has never stopped running

After helping his artillery team win the post basketball championship last winter, the lanky speedster transferred to track, where he whiled away his spring leisure skimming the high and low hurdles and running the 100-yard dash

These endeavors also served to prove that Dowler has lost none of his awesome speed "I ran the high hurdles in 14 6 and the hundred in 10 flat or a shade under" Boyd was happy to report

Like his colleagues Boyd's primary goal is "to win the championship again"

What about a personal objective? "I just want to improve every year" Dowler said "As far as winning the pass receiving championship. I don't even think about it A lot of intangibles go into having a good year as a receiver And, remember we're primarily a running team"

Giants Defeat Braves, 7-3 In Finale of 3-Game Series

MILWAUKEE (AP)— The Milwaukee Braves played a familiar tune at County Stadium Thursday They were helpless in the clutch

The Braves jumped off to a lead and then folded once again in bowing 7 3 to the San Francisco Giants before a crowd of 20 570 including 6 412 Ladies Day and Knothole Gang fans

The Milwaukee "sluggers" flashed their power briefly in the second when Hank Aaron led off with his 24th homer, a high shot into the left field stands and Lee Maye connected for his fourth homer into the bleachers in right

After Willie Mays lined his 26th homer in the San Francisco fourth the Braves bounced back for a run in their half on singles by Frank Bolling and Maye and a hard drive by Joe Torre off south paw hurler Mike McCormick Torre was thrown out as the run scored and McCormick had to retire from the game

The Braves, who left two runners on base in the third, were stymied the rest of the way by Don Larsen, who finished the fourth before exiting for a pinch-hitter and Bob Bolin They left two runners stranded in both the fifth and sixth

The Giants tied the count in the 3 3 in the fifth as Milwaukee rookie Denny Lemaster was driven out Lemaster hurled hitless ball until Mays' homer and then lost his stuff in the fifth A single, a walk, a hit batsman and a single by Jose Pagan brought Carl Willey from the bull-

The Giants edged in front in the seventh on a double by Ernie Bowman, a wild pitch and neat sacrifice bunt by Pagan who executed the suicide squeeze despite two strikes on him San Francisco then added two runs in the eighth and one in the ninth

Bolin who allowed only two hits in five innings of relief earned the victory his fifth with-

Jack McKeon Helps Hurler Via Radio

VANCOUVER B C (AP)—The magic world of electronic gadgets has invaded Pacific Coast League baseball

And it's paying off big for the Vancouver Mounties who edged Tacoma 1-0 Thursday night

How did they do it? They're using radio—transistor type

Here's how it works Mountie Manager Jack McKeon sits n the dugout with a transmitter Whenever he wants to drop a bit of advice to his pitcher, McKeon just presses a button and tells him The information is picked up by a tiny receiver—the size of a cigaret pack—hidden in the hurler's shirt pocket

Thursday Gerry Arrigo was able to strike out 14 batters taking McKeon's signals rather than his catcher's

Nifty? Well so far it's helped the Mounties to win both games since its introduction Wednesday night

Shorty's, Bleier's, Adler Brau, Raveno Gain 'Valley' Victories

There was an absence of pitching for more than three hours before the hitters took over the spotlight in the opening round of the 12th annual Appleton Recreation Department sponsored softball tournament Thursday night at Telulah Park.

Four more [illegible] games are on schedule tonight, beginning at 5:45 p.m. [illegible] the quarterfinals slated for Saturday night.

If rain forces postponement of tonight's games, they will be made up Saturday afternoon, beginning at 12:30 p.m.

While more than 250 fans watched Thursday night, hitters beat a steady [illegible]. An average of over [illegible] runs per game were scored in the first three tilts. Then the pitchers took charge as two shutouts wound up the long night's activity.

Shorty's VFW Bar whipped the Aid Association for Lutherans in an all-Appleton fray, 16-6, to open the meet. Bleier's Bar, of Appleton, ripped through Thomson's Packers, of De Pere, 20-2. Adler Brau, of Appleton, outlasted West Side Lanes of Fond du Lac, 10-7.

Club Raveno, of Neenah, received a nifty 3-hit shutout mound effort from Len Adams enroute to a 5-0 triumph over Milt's 616 Club of Green Bay, champion of the Luxemburg tourney last weekend. Defending champion Swan Club of De Pere scored a 5-0 whitewashing over Star Bar, of Neenah, as Riney Hlinck, winner of last year's most valuable pitching trophy, left-handed his way home on a 6-hitter.

Takes 4-0 Lead

Jumping on Don Calmes for all of its hits and runs in the first two innings, AAL hopped into a 4-0 lead in the opening frame and made it 6-3 after two stanzas over Shorty's. Thereafter, Calmes was untouchable, yielding but one walk.

Sparked by Joe Guerts' booming bat, VFW rallied to take a 7-6 lead in the third and never was headed. Guerts wound up with three hits, one a double, and six runs batted across.

Al Brown tripled over two runs and Fred Plamann rifled four hits in five trips to pace the winners. Roger Westphal was the [illegible] of AAL [illegible] with more than one hit as he had two, one a [illegible].

5-Run Splurge

Adler Brau rallied, after trailing 4-1, with a 5-run splurge in the third inning to sew up its win over West Side Lanes. Bob Heitpas and Dave Thiel tripled in the uprising and Bob Dresser doubled. Thiel's clout was a bases-loaded blow.

Club Raveno launched a furious first inning attack which netted four runs and added a fifth marker in the second before Fred Fels of Green Bay blanked the Neenah aggregation the remainder of the route. Hurling hitless ball, Adams yielded only one solid hit along with two infield scratch singles. Two of the hits were collected by his mound foe.

Swan Club broke the scoring drought in the third inning as Manager Tom Day tripled and scored on an error. Three hits and two Star Bar errors wound up the scoring in the fifth frame.

All of Neenah's hits were singles, with the exception of a lead-off double by Bob Bricco in the fourth inning.

Ralph Boston Renews Rivalry With Russia's Igor Ter-Ovanesyan

Track Meet Begins Saturday At Stanford

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — America's Ralph Boston and Russia's Igor Ter-Ovanesyan renew an old rivalry in the broad jump Saturday as the Yanks and Soviets open their two-day track meet at Stanford with world records threatened.

Ter-Ovanesyan's pending world record of 27 feet 3 inches will erase Boston's 27-1¼, but the Russian never has outjumped the American in four head-to-head meetings.

Three times in meets, and in the 1960 Olympics, Boston has come out victorious. And the U.S. men have beaten the Russians in all three of their previous international team meetings.

Competing in the two-day meet will be 13 world-record holders or pending record-holers. Seven are men and six women. Four of those men are Yanks but only one U.S. gal made the women's list—sprinter Wilma Rudolph Ward, hero of the 1960 Olympics.

Uncle Sam's fellows rate as choices again, while the Russian women are strong favorites.

Top Battle

Boston and Ter-Ovanesyan could provide the top battle of the opening day.

"I feel stronger than I have all year," declared Boston on arriving here from Tennessee A&I. "Early this season I had a bruised heel, chipped bone in my ankle and pulled hamstring muscle. So I never have reached a peak."

Last June 10, Ter-Ovanesyan hit his peak with the 27-3 leap for the pending world record, bettering Boston's accepted mark set at the U.S.-Russian meet in Moscow last year.

But now it's Ter-Ovanesyan ailing with a leg he injured in practice last Monday.

"I am not happy," he says, but adds significantly that he wouldn't be surprised to see a world record here.

"Stanford is a lucky place for me because it is at the same parallel of the earth as Yerevan, Armenia, where I set the record."

The Russian jumper is one of the few on the team who speak English. He and Boston have been friends since their first meeting in 1958.

[illegible] these meets are good [illegible] everyone concerned," Boston [illegible]. "They make for better [illegible] than those you see and compete against all year."

Men's events in Stanford Stadium Saturday in addition to the broad jump, are the pole vault, 100-meter dash, 110-meter hurdles, 20-kilometer walk, 400-meter dash, 10,000-meter run, shot put, hammer throw and 400-meter relay.

Women's events are the high jump, javelin throw, 100-meter dash, discus throw, and 400-meter relay.

out defeat. Willey suffered the loss and now is 1-4 for the year.

Lou Johnson, obtained from Toronto of the International League as Mack Jones was farmed to the same club, reported two hours before game time started in centerfield. Johnson was retired on a sharp line drive to the third baseman in the first, rapped a single to left in the third and was hit on the left elbow by a pitch in the fifth. He left the game for treatment after being hit, but is expected to be available for a doubleheader in Philadelphia tonight.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts named Lew Burdette, holder of an 8-5 record, and Bob Hendley, who is 6-6, to face the Phils in the twi-night twin bill. They are due to be opposed on the mound by Art Mahaffey and Chris Short. Mahaffey has 12-9 mark, while Short is 4-6.

Schultz. Lou Brock and Ron Santo homered for the Cubs, both off starter Ernie Broglio.

The Phillies did it again to the Colts, breaking a 2-2 tie with three in the eighth while Chris Short and Jack Baldschun held the fort in relief. Short pitched to just one man in the seventh, but was the winner because he made pinch hitter Carl Warwick hit into a double play and then left for a pinch hitter in the Phils' winning rally. Hal Woodeshick was the loser.

Rice University Gets Yankee Stadium Stock

John William Cox, Corporation Head, Makes Gift

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) —A graduate who made a fortune selling paper cartons has given Rice University substantial stock in New York City's Yankee Stadium.

John William Cox, 59, a Chicago financier, said Thursday he made the gift this spring in appreciation of the education he received at Rice, a tuition-free school but one of the nation's toughest academically.

"The educational opportunity I got there opened the world to me and I'll always be grateful," Cox said by telephone interview from his yacht in Lake Michigan.

He would only say the amount of stock given was substantial but added:

"As it turns out, Rice owns the stadium. My interest is purely nominal. I do not receive any money from the corporation. It's a substantial amount of stock that will give steady income over the years. Rice has helped a lot of poor boys get started."

Rice officials, in a formal statement, said the gift includes an unrestricted deed of all the stadium's capital stock.

Continues as President

Cox is to continue as president and board chairman of Yankee Stadium Corp., but the only other directors now include Cox' attorney, William A. Kaynor, New York City, and members of the Rice board of trustees.

Undergraduate enrollment at Rice is limited to 1,500 students, but the Cox gift gives the university an interest in or direct ownership of two 70,000-seat stadiums.

A 70,000-seat football stadium was built on the campus in 1950. The doubledecked modern structure can be enlarged later to 110,000 without a post obstructing the view from any seat.

Cox explained the corporate structure of Yankee Stadium this way:

The Knights of Columbus own the land but the Yankee Stadium Corp., owner of the stadium, leases the land for about $180,000 a year.

The Yankee Baseball Club holds a 25-year lease on the stadium and holds options to renew the lease another 42 years.

Cox said the 16 years remaining on the current lease should provide Rice an income of more than $1 million.

Cox purchased the stadium in 1955 from Arnold Johnson, former owner of the Kansas City Athletics.

Johnson and associates paid $6,500,000 for Yankee Stadium and the stadium of the Kansas City Blues, a Yankee farm club. The Knights of Columbus then purchased the land for $2½ million.

Experts in 1953 appraised the value of the two stadiums at $8,000,000, with Yankee Stadium accounting for most of the estimate.

"I feel quick, a lot quicker than last year," said Kramer, a trim 245. "Of course, the ankles, which bothered him a good part of the '61 season) are better".

Musical Acts, Awards Slated For 'Heart of Valley' Night

The 'Heart of the Valley Merchants will sponsor their second annual Fox Cities Foxes booster game Saturday night at Goodland Field.

Special pre game entertainment including selections by the Kimbelaires will be presented. A pep band will perform before and during the game between the Fox Cities Foxes and Waterloo.

Tickets for the affair are now being distributed by the retail organization's establishments in Kaukauna, Little Chute, Kimberly and Combined Locks. Each ticket entitled a fan to free admission to the game.

Last season 2,643 fans attended the booster contest — and with more awards being given this year another large turnout is expected.

The game proceeds — derived from merchants contributions—will be used by the Heart of the Valley retail committee for its advertising campaign in the coming year. Last year's proceeds helped start an advertising campaign and also provided the funds to spot advertising on a bus. Many advertising aids and banners were also provided for the merchants on a no charge basis.

and getting Frank Johnson on a grounder to the first baseman.

In the sixth inning Johnson walked and John T. Price hit a grounder to Foxes second sacker Bob Lewandowski who bobbled it. On the error Johnson moved to third and Price to second.

Price tried to steal third too. With Johnson still on third Price was stranded between the two bases. Then Johnson made a run for home and the attention was focused on him. Price took third but Johnson was tagged out by Shirah.

The Commodores got runners beyond second base only two more times during the game.

'Good Control'

Although he threw two wild pitches Watt maintained good control throughout the game. He walked five batters and struck out 11. His mound opponent Barry Huntzinger kept the walk tally down to one batter. In six innings he struck out six and allowed five hits but four of the five resulted in three earned runs.

After a big second inning, the Foxes failed to reach first base in following two. In the fifth Don Engbers hit a single to right, went to second on an error by Del Rutz and moved to third when Lewandowski hit into a fielder's choice.

But the scoring opportunity ended when Bob Litchfield hit into a double play. The Foxes last hit came when Litchfield led off in the eighth with a single moved to second on Shirah's grounder to the second baseman and was stranded there when Scruggs flew to left and Markowski hit a chopper to second.

The victory, Watt's third straight and his third shutout of the season, increased his record to 6-7.

considered long enough for the big Aronimink Course — Doug Ford, Bob Goalby and Frank Stranahan.

The 70 shooters included Don January who lost a playoff for the PGA title to Jerry Barber last year. Paul Harney, Joe Campbell, Leo Biagetti and Dick Hart. Tied with Palmer and Nicklaus at 71 were Dave Marr, Johnny Pott, Marty Furgol and Bob Goalda.

Barnum who won only $200 in his last tournament appearance in the Western Open and a total of $2,449.28 on the official PGA list this year doesn't have any illusions about his chances against this strong field.

"When you shoot 4-under-par you're never tired," he said. But he wouldn't even mention the possibility of another 66.

His round was built on accurate approaches to the greens that were softened by Wednesday's drenching rains and putts that dropped when he needed them.

He needed only 26 putts for the round and on the four occasions when he missed a green he made up for the lapse by getting down in one putt. It was a record for the Aronimink Course and for the first round of the PGA championship.

McKinley and Jon Douglas Restore Order

Halt Onrush of Junior Players in Clay Courts Test

CHICAGO (AP)—The onrush of Junior Davis Cup tennis players has been halted in the National Clay Court Tournament and order restored by veterans Chuck McKinley and Jon Douglas.

McKinley 21 and Douglas 25 seeded first and third respectively are regulars on the U.S. Davis Cup team which recently defeated Canada and will play at Mexico City Aug 4-6 in American Zone competition.

Whitney Reed, Dennis Ralston, Frank Froehling and Don Dell—other regulars—were ousted early in the clay court meet at the River Forest Tennis Club.

5 Hopefuls Lose

With them out six hopeful Junior Davis Cuppers entered Thursday's third round but after it was over only Art Ashe, St. Louis Negro who will enroll at UCLA this fall, remained.

The others went out in this order:

McKinley blasted Bill Higgins, Lawton, Okla 6-1, 6-2. Douglas won 11 straight games after losing the first set to edge Clark Graebner, Lakewood, Ohio 4-6, 7-5, 6-0. Juan Couder of Spain second foreign seed defeated Cliff Buchholz, St. Louis 6-3, 6-1 and Bill Lenoir trimmed Mike Belkin, Miami Beach 6-3, 6-4.

Ashe tangled with Junior Davis Cup teammate Thomas Edlefsen of San Francisco and won 6-3, 6-4.

Ashe is in one of the feature quarter final matches today. He meets Fred Stolle of Australia, top foreign seed and Wimbledon doubles champion.

The women's division was without a seeded player. Wimbledon queen Karen Susman withdrew to avoid further risk of injury to her sprained left thumb. Fourth seeded Gwyneth Thomas of Shaker Heights, Ohio was defeated by Nancy Richey, Dallas 6-2, 3-6, 6-1.

Miss Richey will meet Carole Caldwell of Santa Monica, Calif., in a semifinal match Saturday. Donna Floyd, Arlington, Va., who advanced on default by Mrs. Susman will face 16-year-old Julie Heldman of New York today.

Jos. Schlitz Earnings Rise 38 Per Cent

MILWAUKEE (AP)— The Jos Schlitz Brewing Co announced today that net earnings for the first half of 1962 rose what it termed a dramatic 34.8 per cent as sales jumped 22.6 per cent, to $97.4 million from $79.5 million during the same period a year ago.

Earning were $5 million for the first six months of this year, president Robert Uihlein said, compared with $3.7 million a year ago. Barrellage rose from 2.7 million to 3.4 million.

General Motors Sets Sales Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — General Motors Corp reported today sales and earnings in both the second quarter and first half of 1962 were at record levels.

Net income for the quarter set a record for the third consecutive quarterly period, totaling $402 million compared with $74 million in this year's first quarter and $252 million in the April-June quarter of 1961. On a per share basis—also a record—net was equal to $1.41 in the second quarter against $1.31 in the first three months of this year and 8 cents in the second quarter last year.

Sales for the quarter climbed to $4,026 billion from $3,665 billion—the previous high—in the first quarter of this year and compared with $3,088 billion from April through June in 1961.

C&NW Doubles Freight Car Repair Program

Chicago and North Western Railway Co., Chicago will rebuild and improve 5,000 freight cars this year more than doubling the expenditure for freight car repairs originally scheduled for 1962, Clyde J. Fitzpatrick, president, said today.

Fitzpatrick said the accelerated program at the railroad's Clinton, Iowa, repair shops is already under way. He explained that an additional $3,245,000 will be spent during the remaining months of this year. Employment of additional car repairmen in various crafts has already started at Clinton, he said.

Output of freight cars under the stepped up program calls for 2,036 freight train cars more than originally budgeted for the year. More than 2,800 are box cars all of which will be upgraded to Class A cars suitable for handling of flour, paper and other commodities requiring high grade cars. Approximately 1,800 gondola cars also will go through the repair shops. All of these cars will be equipped with steel floors, to make them suitable for a wide variety of commodities.

NOTICE

There have been several notices in Kaukauna regarding the cutting of weeds in the city. The department of public works has cut the weeds on many lots but there are still some on which weeds have not been cut. If weeds on empty lots or other properties are not cut the city will do so and put the charge on your tax roll. The rate is $10 per hour. This is the final notice.

Excited 7th Grader

Freedom Girl National Winner Of Young Hobby Club Contest

"Judy was so excited I thought she would go through the ceiling" These were the words of Mrs Vance Garvey, Freedom, about her 12-year-old daughter's reaction after learning she was a Young Hobby Club national winner

According to the directions for the May 30th Hobby Club puzzle as printed in the Post-Crescent, contestant's were to unscramble the wild animals pictured and reassemble them correctly against some imaginative background This was to be done with "neatness and originality"

Judy mounted her "savage beasts" on a piece of white paper caging them in a wagon concocted from toothpicks and with buttons for wheels She added a cloth circus tent with a grinning white duck in its doorway and a painted landscape in the background and submitted her entry

Reader Wins Books

The "circus-scape" must have satisfied all of Cappy Dick's requirements and then some as Judy, who had won regional prizes in the contests on several occasions, now qualified as one of the country's five national winners, as well as again taking a local prize

For an avid reader such as Judy, (she makes regular biweekly trips to the Kaukauna library for the specific purpose of borrowing books) her prize, a 12-volume set of the Encyclopedia Brittanica's "Great Books for Children" couldn't have been more perfect. The series introduces her to such classics as "Tales of King Arthur" and "Pinocchio" "Heidi" and "Huckleberry Finn"

But the one that looks best of all is 'Alice in Wonderland," Judy said happily.

Judy has other interests besides reading. The seventh-grader at St Nicholas School, Freedom, also cites sewing as a favorite pastime She adds that she collects the "Seams to Me" columns from the Post-Crescent and pastes them in a book, though most of her needlework thus far has consisted in making doll clothes and a pair of mittens.

Fishing is another way that Judy passes her summer hours She often takes young neighbors with her to a near-by creek for an afternoon of battle with local bullheads "I like it—all but handling those worms we use for bait"

And when the fishing and the sewing run out, there is always plenty of attention to be given to the Garvey menagerie Rabbits, pigeons, turtles and parakeets keep Judy and brothers Vance, 17, and Tom, 7, occupied

Judy Garvey, Daughter of Mr and Mrs Vance Garvey, Freedom, delves into the first book of her new 12-volume set of "Great Books for Children" The 12-year-old received the books as her prize for being one of the country's five national winners in the May 30th Young Hobby Club contest.

Since winning the Hobby Club contest, Judy has become something of a minor celebrity in her town "People have called all week to congratulate me" She smiled shyly, "My school principal even called"

Winning the national prize hasn't dulled Judy's competitive spirit She still competes regularly in the Young Hobby Club contests that appear in the Post-Crescent every Wednesday "We always know when Judy's working on one" her mother says with a fond smile "It's whenever she barricades herself in the den"
